

Shifts for Pupils Next Year Danger in Greater Victoria

School board chairman W. C. Gelling said yesterday construction of additional classrooms for Greater Victoria schools must be undertaken without delay if shift classes are to be avoided next year.

Trustees met briefly during the day to confirm Oct. 28 as voting day for the $3,753,000 building bylaw in School District 61.

Mr. Gelling said school enrolment has jumped by more than 10,000 in the past 10 years to 23,000.

EXPENSIVE GROWTH
It has cost "almost $13,000,000 for new schools, sites and equipment" to keep abreast of the growth, he said.

"This has been accomplished thus far through foresight and planning and the favorable vote of the ratepayers," said Mr. Gelling. "Now, further expenditures must be made if we are to ensure that classroom space will be available for all who seek entry in the years ahead."

WITH ASSENT
The school board, representing the people, can only measure up to this responsibility and duty with the assent of the ratepayers," he said.

"Certainly there are good reasons to believe enrolments will continue to increase year by year. And with local schools filled to capacity now, it is essential that additional school construction be undertaken without delay."

440 MORE ROOMS
Mr. Gelling quoted from the 1958 capital region plan which forecast that in the 20 years to 1976 an additional 440 classrooms would be needed.

The report said "only a few" of these would be replacements for obsolete or sub-standard accommodation.

Well-kept Tod House once was "haunted."

Oldest in B.C.

Historic Home 'Safe'

At least one link with Victoria's colorful past is not likely to be swept aside. Historic Tod House on Heron Street in Oak Bay has been willed to the B.C. Historical Society.

Now the oldest residential structure in the province, the cozy home at 2564 Heron will, on the death of present owner Lt. Col. T. C. Evans and his wife, go to the society to become in the hopes of Col. Evans, a B.C. historical site.

ONE OF A KIND
When first built, the house stood alone on the slope overlooking Willows Beach. For years it enjoyed the distinction of being the only "haunted" house hereabouts. Various owners told stories of self-opening doors, strange sounds in empty rooms and objects moving with no hand to help.

Strangely, these manifestations ended with the discovery a few years ago of a skeleton buried in the garden—a find made during excavation for an oil tank.

"There's been no 'ghost' since," says Col. Evans. "I think that whole story was a bit overplayed."

One of the original owners of what now is Oak Bay was John Tod, noted B.C. pioneer and chief trader for the Hudson's Bay Co. He built the house—a six-room dwelling modernized "enough," but still retaining the flavor of its age.

Soapbox Derby Planned

Victoria Jaycees are planning to hold a soapbox derby on Cook Street, between Hillside and Bay, next summer.

The Jaycees have asked city council for permission to close the street for one day in June to hold the races.

Winning Victoria boy would compete in the Western Canada finals to be held in Mission City, July 1.

New Post for Hoffmeister

Export Expert Named by B.C.

An experimental but intensive two-year program to stimulate export trade for B.C. has been launched by the appointment of Maj. Gen. B. M. Hoffmeister to the newly-created post of commissioner of export trade for the province.

Trade Minister Robert Bonner said Gen. Hoffmeister, recently retired B.C. agent-general in London, would take up his duties in Victoria but would shortly move to Vancouver for closer contact with businessmen and representatives of foreign governments.

"Gen. Hoffmeister's broad terms of reference include heading up a number of small but highly representative trade missions abroad," said Mr. Bonner.

He said the government felt that the province had to do more to solidify existing trade connections in foreign countries as well as seeking and developing new outlets.

At Club Sirocco

'Toys' Dominate Dog Show

More than 170 dogs, of every size, shape, pedigree and description have been entered in the 74th annual fall show opened yesterday by the Victoria City Kennel Club.

Judging the show are Col. E. E. Ferguson of Hollywood and W. H. Pym of Vancouver. Reflected in size of the entries is a continued trend towards smaller dogs of the "toy" variety. Toy poodles, with 11 entries, comprise the largest single class in the show.

Entries have poured in from the U.S. and mainland points as well as Vancouver Island.

The show resumes at 8.30 this morning at the Club Sirocco.

Results:

Esquimalt Sifting Dual-Chief Bids

Esquimalt police commission is still considering applications of six persons for the dual posts of police-fire chief.

Reeve A. C. Wurtz, chairman of the commission, said last night, "I can't give a definite date yet" when the announcement will be made.

Police commission likely will meet within 10 days to discuss the matter but it is not known whether any decision will be reached then because some of the applicants may have to be interviewed, said the reeve.

Twenty persons applied for the post which will be open Dec. 31 upon the retirement of Chief Gilbert Stancombe.

Various owners told stories of self-opening doors, strange sounds in empty rooms and objects moving with no hand to help.

Strangely, these manifestations ended with the discovery a few years ago of a skeleton buried in the garden—a find made during excavation for an oil tank.

Your Good Health

Little Relief Better Than None To Sniffling Hay Fever Victims

By JOSEPH MOLNER, MD

Dear Dr. Molner: Do you believe that taking shots for hay fever is harmful to the system in any way? My husband has been taking shots every two weeks for about 12 years. My son, 14, has been taking shots for three years.

They both say they don't get hay fever as bad as they did before these shots. Do you think it is worth taking these injections for slight relief? The so-called pills for hay fever don't do much good.—Mrs. F. S.

I can say only that the proof of the pudding is in the eating, and the proof of the medication is in the patient. There is no harm to the system in having shots—small injections of the extract of pollen—over long periods of time.

It is up to the victims of allergy to judge whether the improvement is worth the trouble. Results vary considerably. Some patients find themselves remarkably free of discomfort after injections; some find only moderate relief. But the ones whose relief is moderate are the ones who as a rule have the most severe cases, and they welcome even a little help. Their eyes and noses may continue to water, but that they feel better is the important thing.

LIFE WORTH LIVING

As to pills: I know people who have quite a miserable time without pills, during the hay fever season, and find life quite worth living when they do use them. But here again it's a matter of individual cases.

In 10, or 100, or 1,000 years I presume that we'll find out more about allergy, and how to control it. But medicine isn't magic. It's hard work. It's finding a fact, or two or 20, and using the facts to do all the good we can.

Dear Dr. Molner: My husband has angina pectoris and is on anti-coagulant therapy. He has been doing real well and has a blood test every 30 days. But every so often blood spots break under the skin of his forearms and they take about two weeks to disappear. Could you explain what causes this and is there any way to stop it?—P. K.

The anti-coagulants have one purpose: they prevent the blood from clotting so easily. Therefore if anti-coagulants are being taken any little nick (as with a razor) may bleed a good deal longer than usual, and almost any little bump can cause a black-and-blue mark. The reason for your husband's frequent tests is to be sure that clotting isn't retarded too much.

This close testing is necessary. It results in many lives being saved.

Note to R. O.: No, fluorine treatment does not have to be internal. The "topical application," that is, painting the teeth with a 2 per cent solution, is widely used and results in an estimated 40 per cent reduction in cavities.

U.S. Sells Jets to Tito In Cold War Gambit

WASHINGTON (AP)—The state department said Thursday the United States has sold 135 F-86D Sabre jet fighters to Yugoslavia to help that Communist country stay free of Moscow's domination.

In connection with the sale, eight Yugoslav Air Force men are being trained at Fort Worth Air Force Base in Texas—four as pilots and four as maintenance men.

The defence department said three Yugoslav airmen also will get training at Lowry Air Force Base in Colorado.

BIGGEST DEAL

The deal with Yugoslavia for the U.S. surplus, obsolescent all-weather interceptor planes is the largest U.S. arms transaction with Belgrade since President Tito halted American military aid to Yugoslavia in 1957.

The state department said Yugoslavia paid cash for the planes in a business transaction which did not involve American foreign aid.

A Pentagon spokesman said Yugoslavia is also paying for the training of the personnel as part of the sales arrangement.

$10,000 EACH

Officials said the package deal is costing Yugoslavia $1,000,000. Each plane is being sold for $10,000, they said. The Sabre jets, declared surplus last year, originally cost $343,000 apiece.

According to the state department, the U.S. since Tito's 1948 break with the Soviet bloc, has supported the ability and determination of Yugoslavia to maintain its independence.

One-Man Rule in UN

Zorin Charges U.S. 'Seized' Secretariat

UNITED NATIONS (AP)—Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Valerian Zorin charged Friday that "one man"—evidently meaning American Andrew W. Cordier—has seized power illegally over the United Nations secretariat.

Zorin, at a 1½-hour press conference, alleged that the unidentified official was running the UN secretariat in a one-sided way.

A spokesman for the secretariat denied that any one man had taken charge among the 29 UN undersecretaries, including Cordier.

NO CHANGE

In a statement, the spokesman said there had been "no change whatsoever in the responsibilities" of the undersecretaries, but they were consulting among themselves much more than before the death of Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld.

Zorin said the UN would collapse "if the path of non-agreed decisions is taken" in the secretariat.

SINGLE CHIEF

He reiterated the Soviet Union's willingness to have a single acting secretary-general take charge temporarily instead of the three-man board, or troika, that it wants to be installed eventually.

United States Ambassador Adlai Stevenson, Zorin's opposite number in negotiations on the subject, commented that the U.S. would "resist the concept of the troika or the ideological division of the world into three blocs."

Never Work With Reds Hoffa Vows

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Teamster president James Hoffa vowed Friday he would never associate with Communists. But he defended his alliance with a union that was tossed out of the CIO for following the Communist party line—the Mine-Mill union.

Appearing before the Senate internal security subcommittee, Hoffa said he wanted Americans to know that "Hoffa is not a Communist, is not an associate of Communists, does not intend to be a Communist."

He angrily accused the subcommittee of trying to smear his 1,500,000-member union with a Red brush. And he challenged the senators to prove Teamster peace pacts with Mine-Mill and Longshoremen's unions had elevated Communist sympathizers to positions of power in the U.S. labor movement.

Moscow Expels Dutch Ambassador

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet government withdrew its ambassador to The Netherlands Friday and ordered the Dutch ambassador expelled from Moscow to protest the ban on Dutch police and Soviet diplomats last Monday at Amsterdam's airport.

The Moscow action came a few hours after the Dutch government announced in The Hague it would demand the expulsion of Soviet Ambassador Poteleimon Ponomarenko for his role in the fight.

Fists flew at the Dutch airport Oct. 9 when police temporarily detained the wife of a defuncting Soviet scientist Alexei Golub to determine whether she was returning to Russia of her own free will.

Cairo Incident

Canadian, Indian Beaten Egypt Sends Regrets

CAIRO (AP)—The embassies of Canada and India confirmed Friday a military attack of each country was beaten up by a group of Egyptians at the time of the recent Syrian revolt against the United Arab Republic.

Neither embassy would comment beyond confirming the incident had taken place and a protest had been made to Egyptian authorities. It was understood Egyptian officials already have extended regrets and promised to investigate.

Egyptian authorities have declined to comment publicly. Informed sources said the two attaches were taken from an embassy car with diplomatic licence plates and beaten following an involved incident with an army convoy.

In Ottawa, an external affairs department official said the Canadian was Group Capt. W. C. Langstaff. He was reported not in serious condition.

He was badly beaten about the face while the Indian was bruised and suffered leg injuries.

The First Stone

APPARENTLY the Afro-Asian bloc in the UN General Assembly has had wiser second thoughts about supporting a threatened motion calling for the expulsion of South Africa from the United Nations.

Such a move was proposed by the Senegal representative after participating in an emotional debate on South African Foreign Minister Eric Louw's cold exposition of his country's internal policies. The debate ended with the unprecedented action of the General Assembly voting 67 to one in favor of a motion of censure terming the speech "offensive and erroneous."

Although South Africa cast the lone opposing vote, Canada, Australia, New Zealand, Ireland, Italy, Portugal and a number of South American countries were among those abstaining. Britain, the United States and France were among nine other countries which announced they would not participate.

In explanation of the Canadian stand in the matter, Senator A. J. Brook, vice-chairman of the delegation, labelled the censuring of a nation for a speech in a General Assembly debate "a dangerous precedent." However, if Canada had voted against the motion it could have been interpreted as agreement with the South African racial policies—policies which, of course, Canada does not support. The Canadian delegation therefore had no other choice but to abstain.

Senator Brook's concern over the setting of a dangerous precedent is well founded. If the General Assembly is to become nothing but a platform for the sounding off of national jealousies, individual prejudices and narrow views its wider horizons of internationalism will soon be lost.

How would these national interests—or racial hatreds—react if the Senegal delegate yet insisted on placing his motion to expel South Africa before either the Security Council or the General Assembly under the UN Charter provision that a member who consistently flouts UN principles can be expelled by the Assembly on recommendation of the Security Council?

Obviously there is a strong feeling among the Afro-Asian nations that South Africa's internal racial policies do so flout the principles of the United Nations. If they support such a move as Senegal proposes, how then would the nations of the world vote? Who, indeed, could cast the first stone?

Could the U.S.S.R., who persistently rejects the very principles of the United Nations by denying fundamental human rights to millions under its rule both within and without its borders, honestly support it?

Could the United States, whose negro population is double that of South Africa's with millions of them denied equal rights with the white races of the country, honestly support it?

Could the colonial powers of Portugal, France, Belgium and Britain honestly support it? Could the Afro-Asian dictatorships of Pakistan and Ghana honestly support it?

In all honesty they could not. To relieve their embarrassment if put to such a test, they could, however, call upon the Assembly to observe another paragraph in the UN Charter which prohibits UN intervention in matters within the domestic jurisdiction of any state.

However, as honesty appears to have become a commodity in very short supply in the world these days—even in the hallowed halls of the United Nations—there is a possibility that the motion could succeed.

If such were the case the United Nations would accomplish only a hollow victory for humanity and its high principles. Not only would it cut off from any outside contact the 100,000 rabid racists who keep the present South African government in power but would simultaneously destroy all hope of the remaining 12,000,000 white, negro, colored and Asiatic South Africans who either were denied the vote or who voted against it.

Those Afro-Asian nations who simply seek revenge on behalf of the fellow members of their race now under the present South African government must be made to realize this basic fact. It is doubly important that they be made to see the overall picture because within the next few months they will possess the controlling vote in the General Assembly.

If they persist in relating their policy to the color of their skins they are, in fact, committing the same crime of which they now accuse South Africa.

Time to Cut the Knot

REEVE CHATTERTON has told the Saanich Council he has been informed that the federal government's new forest research laboratories would not be built on the Victoria University campus because it was against the wishes of Dr. N. A. M. MacKenzie, principal of UBC.

Mr. Chatterton, who is also MP for Saanich-Esquimalt, said that the Point Grey thinking ran counter to the wishes of the Victoria University authorities. So far as the federal government is concerned it had an open mind on the site of the laboratory, but now that the University has rejected it the building will go up elsewhere.

This is a great pity because the people who subscribed over $2,500,000 in a public appeal for University funds for Victoria were of the impression that the Gordon Head campus was to be the centre of higher educational research and learning.

If the Vancouver veto is true, and there seems little reason to doubt it, surely it is time for those who raised the funds for Victoria University to have another look at the situation in which they find themselves.

The question that must be posed is this. Does each new enterprise of the local University have to hinge on the decision of Dr. MacKenzie?

If so, for the good of the Victoria institution, the time may be approaching when the Gordian knot with UBC must be cut.

From the day Dr. MacKenzie appeared before the members of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce and said that Victoria was not ripe for a University, the UBC chief has put stick after stick in the wheels of the local educational enterprise.

It seems untenable that he should be allowed to continue as a deterrent to the legitimate ambitions of Victoria University.

Dr. MacKenzie must know that the Victoria College Council was able to purchase the Gordon Head camp area at a very reasonable price from the federal government simply because it would be used for higher educational purposes. The forest research laboratory fell fittingly within this scope.

Members Don't Pay Up

The United Nations in Danger

By W. N. EWER, from London

LORD HOME in his speech to the United Nations General Assembly on Sept. 27 used ominous words: "The United Nations itself is in danger." The extent and the gravity of that danger is, I think, by no means fully appreciated.

We are all familiar with the fact that the Security Council has been largely paralyzed by the unscrupulous use of the veto by the Russians. The Soviet Union has now used its power to prevent the Council from taking decisions even though approved by a majority of its members no fewer than 95 times.

This obstructionism has to a certain extent been overcome by the Assembly in which there is no great power veto but only the requirement of a two-thirds majority. The Assembly has, as it were, stepped into the gap. This, let me repeat, has only been done in accordance with the wishes of over two-thirds of the whole membership.

But now even this procedure is threatened. It is threatened in the first place by the Russian attempt to prevent the Secretariat from taking action to carry out the instructions in the resolutions of the Assembly. It is also threatened by the readiness of the Russians to allow such action to become impossible, or exceedingly difficult, by refraining from contributing to the cost of it.

I shall deal with the second point only because too little attention has been given to it. The contributions required from states are calculated on a percentage basis according to a rough assessment of their capacity to pay resources. They range from nearly 23 per cent of the total UN budget in the case of the United States down to 0.4 per cent in the case of most of the smallest and financially weakest members.

Incidentally there is a strong case for the revision of percentages fixed in 1945. It seems a little grotesque when one thinks of Soviet boasts of their present economic strength that their share (just under 14 per cent) is less than half that of the United States.

What is the cause of the present troubles of which Mr. Hammarskjöld gave a grave warning in his last annual report? There will, according to his budget estimate be a deficit of some $90,000,000 by next June unless member states now in default pay what they owe. If they do not, it is hard to see how a balance can be struck. The limit of borrowing has been reached. In fact the British Lord Privy Seal (second in command of the British Foreign Office) has bluntly said that the UN will "face bankruptcy."

There are, it must be explained, two types of expenditure—ordinary and extraordinary. The first includes the normal running costs of the organization. A number of member states are in arrears with their contributions even to this. But mostly these are only delayed. If this were all, the situation would not be over serious.

The real difficulty arises over the "extraordinary." This is money expended for the carrying out of peace and security operations called for by the Assembly—in other words approved by more than two thirds of the member states. The two principal operations are the Middle East force which has been posted on the Israel-Arab borders since 1957; and the Congo operations, both military and civil.

With regard to both of these a number of member states are not merely in default; they are refusing to pay their contributions because they do not approve of what is being done. They are refusing to take their share in carrying out the will of the majority. That strikes at the root of things.

The most serious—though by no means the only—of fender is the Soviet Union. Most serious because the Soviet share of the cost should be 14 per cent of the whole.

Yet the U.S.S.R. has not paid one kopeck toward the cost of higher operation despite the fact that it voted in favor of the Security Council resolution which set the UN Congo operations in motion. It is now in default by over $18,000,000; and has made it clear that it has not the least intention of ever paying. Now the cumulative effect of this form of financial passive resistance—of which, let me repeat, not only the communist countries are guilty—is not merely a possible deficit of $90,000,000. It can cripple all operations by the UN as the veto has crippled the Security Council. The Middle East and Congo operations may have to be cut down or even called off.

Further, how can the Assembly in face of this financial crisis be expected to take other actions, however urgently needed, whether for the maintenance of peace or for the raising of living standards in the developing countries.

That in the case of Russia and her associates is no doubt precisely what is desired. It links with the continual use of the veto in the Security Council and with the attempt to cripple the Secretariat. It is part of an overall plan to undermine the whole organization or to make it an instrument of Soviet policy.

But that can surely not be the wish of at any rate the big majority of the other defaulting states. Not their wish; but they have to consider the effect as well as the intention of their action. And surely since the effect seems only too likely to be in Lord Home's words "fatal to the existence of the United Nations" one may hope that they will reconsider their attitude and decide to pay up.

He Deserves a Holiday

The Peculiar Penguin

WASHINGTON—As spring returns to Antarctica, not every penguin's fancy lightly turns to thoughts of love.

The huge emperor penguins, having brooded and cared for their young during the long dark night of polar winter when it is summer in the Northern Hemisphere, prepare to head out to sea for a care-free spell of fishing.

The emperor deserves a holiday. Few creatures undergo a greater ordeal in parenthood, the National Geographic Society says. The flightless bird nests on ice without shelter of any kind, fasting in Stygian darkness with 50 below blizzards tearing at its feathers.

The lone, one-pound egg must be given tender care. To protect it from cold and storms, the egg is cradled on the penguin's tough feet under a protective canopy of warm abdominal skin.

Shortly after the egg is laid, the mother penguin transfers it to the father. She takes longer and longer walks, finally disappearing altogether for an excursion to the ocean. The male is left with the 60-day job of hatching. About the time the chick emerges, the mother returns to take over and supply it with predigested food. The father who has not eaten for two months, gratefully goes off to fill his empty stomach.

Infant mortality is high in the vast, cold rookeries, and, not surprisingly, penguins are frantically paternal. Since chicks usually outnumber the adults, there is spirited competition to adopt orphans and strays. Baby penguins are often killed in the fray.

Ornithologists do not know why emperor penguins choose their seemingly difficult way of life. It is possible that nesting in darkness protects the young from the penguin's traditional enemy—the rapacious snow gull. Another theory is that the emperor's theory is that the emperor's hosts shall be with you—when food is more plentiful, as a time of incessant feasting.

Even summer, however, is not precisely balmy. The temperature rarely climbs above zero in the interior. Though the South Pole receives more sunlight than any other place on earth when summer blooms in the Southern Hemisphere, about 50 per cent of the rays are reflected by the ice.

Some 17 species of penguin live on the shores of lands and islands in the southern half of the globe, but only the emperor and the Adèle inhabit the frozen continent. As the emperors depart, the Adèles return to raise new families.

The Adèle is only half as large as the four-foot tall, dignified emperor, and it is a much more lively, mischievous, playful and curious bird. Its cocky manner and Chaplinesque walk epitomize penguin character.

During spring and summer, the Adèles breed on the more or less snow-free headlands of the continent. But blizzards often bury the rookeries. Being a good parent, the nesting bird sticks faithfully by its two eggs and permits itself to become marooned in snow.

The snowbound egg-sitter is in luck, however, because the mate is literally left out in the cold, with nothing to do but waddle about and give a.c.m. advice.

Apart from the tribulations of parenthood in the Antarctic, penguins have still another ordeal to face. Once a year they molt, standing alone in a fixed spot on ice or land, unable to swim, seemingly in misery. For nearly a month, they neither eat nor bathe, until, finally, fresh plumage equips them to cavort again in the sea.

From the Scriptures

Seek good, and not evil, that ye may live: and so the Lord of hosts shall be with you. Amos 5:14.

Black Versus Black

Rivalries in Kenya

By a Nairobi Correspondent

AMID the confusion which surrounds Kenya politics as this British East African Colony strives to find a shortcut to independence from Britain, several things are emerging clearly.

The first is that Jomo Kenyatta, the Kikuyu leader recently released from detention, has failed to bring about African unity and his claims to be the paramount leader of nationalism in Kenya, and even further afield, are being openly disputed by his critics.

Since his release in August he has, in fact, given the impression that he is reluctant to lead at all, and neither his strong personality nor his political acumen have been brought to bear on the many grave problems which now beset Kenya.

The second is that all hopes of the Kenya African National Union (KANU) and the Kenya African Democratic Union (KADU) forming a workable coalition government are rapidly fading as the lesser lights of the respective parties harangue each other, although the leaders, in the detached atmosphere of Government House, Nairobi, are still persevering in their search for some common ground on which to build a coalition.

or within a wider East African Federation.

The idea of regional autonomy has now become so popular that if all the bids for separatism were to be granted, little of what is now Kenya would remain as one unit. The latest proposal, mooted by the Kalenjin group of tribes, who are mainly pastoralists akin to the Maasai but with a more progressive outlook, is for a chain of federated tribal regions.

Their chief spokesman, diminutive, perky Teita arap Towett, who is Minister for Labor in the present transitional government, argues that such a system would take into account the very real tribal prejudices which still exist in Kenya, and would cater for Northern Province nomads who want special arrangements for their part of Kenya as well as for the Arabs at the Coast.

Stone dead are the hopes, entertained even a month ago, that Kenyatta would prove strong enough to weld the warring factions of Kenya nationalism into one efficient whole—at least long enough for a stable African government to be formed which could take over the reins from the departing British administrators.

At the best, Kenyatta will now become leader of KANU, but even within this party there are internal struggles for power. Although Kenyatta has not yet formally joined the party, all his colleagues who shared his years of imprisonment and restriction in the North after the Mau Mau rebellion, have now joined.

And that "angry young man" of Kenya politics, Paul Ngei, has announced his intention of "reorganizing" KANU. This followed shortly on his much-publicized plans for taking over all European-owned land. And as Kenyatta grows himself for an "elder statesman" role in Kenya politics, Ngei and the other members of his "Old Guard" line up for the impending struggle for succession within KANU against younger generation political leaders like Mboya, Kioko, Mathenge and Mumbili.

Only Tom Mboya enjoys international reputation—a sad prestige, and in the meantime he is quite prepared to take a back seat as the Old Man (Kenyatta) adjusts himself to the vastly changed political scene since his imprisonment at Kapenguria back in 1952.

Difficult Life

Soothing the Jitters

By CASSANDRA

PRESIDENT Kennedy's life is infinitely more difficult than Mr. Khrushchev's life. Kennedy has to cope with a volatile and, at times, hysterical American public whose anger against the Soviet Union is matched only by their fear of the Communist world.

Khrushchev has no such problem. Not only does he not consult the Russian people, he deliberately keeps them in ignorance of what is going on. He may have to satisfy some of his colleagues in the Kremlin, such as the sinister Mr. Suslov, but otherwise Nikita has a free hand.

Just how emotionally disturbed the American people are becoming is shown by the strange case of Dr. Ralph K. White.

Dr. White is the chief of the Soviet Bloc Division of the Office of Research in the United States Information Agency.

Recently he put forward the following five-point theory: (a) That America is inclined to over-estimate the wickedness of the Communist rulers.

(b) That sometimes the Soviet leaders do actually mean what they say, and it is a grave mistake to the security of the United States not to realize this.

(c) That the American-sponsored invasion of Cuba and the U2 flights were grave and guilty acts on the part of the United States.

(d) That the Russians, although they appear to be excessively aggressive and menacing over Berlin, are genuinely afraid of the West.

(e) That the difference between the true nature of the American people and the Communist world can easily be exaggerated.

All these propositions are sensible and certainly some of them are true.

But what happened to Dr. White who expounded them? Senator Dodd, of Connecticut, is now demanding that he be sacked and that an inquiry be held to see if any other people in the United States Information Agency share his views, which Senator feels are nearly true.

That there is going to be a retreat from the position taken up by the recent half-point philosophy of Vice-President Lyndon Johnson on his recent visit to Berlin is certain.

Mr. Kennedy's problem is how to sell the realities of a modified US stance to millions of Americans who are raring to go against the Soviet Union at the same time as they are nervously buying their do-it-yourself nuclear air-raid kits.

Did you hear what the management committee of the Chesterfield Divisional Labor Party did to Mr. Arthur Bottomley, who is fifty-four, and a former MP for Rochester and Chatham, when he submitted his name as a nominee to be a Parliamentary Candidate?

They struck him off. And the reason they gave was that he was too old.

A local party official said: "It is a pretty unusual step but we want a young man in the Commons, not one who will be just lobby fodder."

We'll be damned. To call Arthur Bottomley "lobby fodder" is base, ignorant rubbish. The man knows his job, is quite unusually experienced, and to be dismissed because he is too old at fifty-four is a disgraceful farce. Arthur Bottomley was, and could be, one of the best Labor MPs that the Party could muster.

Whom do these adolescent news want to put into Westminster? The Juke-box Jury?

I REGARD most of the commercials on ITV as some of the more entertaining and ludicrous affronts ever hurled against the human mind. The lush lush they exude is, for me, however, a permanent delight.

If you have a sense of scepticism, which most of us have, this preposterous pleading can only be a source of deep satisfaction to us all.

But now the immaculate BBC has hit upon the idea of introducing a new counter-program.

It proposes to inform viewers about the findings of the British Standards Institution on the value of goods and testing services for which the publication "Which?" has, as rightly, endeavored itself to a quarter of a million readers.

What could be more excellent?

The DAZ kings on ITV versus the UNDAZ kings of the BBC. There's democracy for you!

A Grim Joke

Adultery is the grounds for divorce in Canada. If that is so why is it not possible to obtain a divorce when adultery is committed? Theoretically it is so obtainable, but practically this is far from true. A husband or wife may commit adultery wishing to be rid of either partner but if the so-called "injured" spouse does not wish to sue for divorce the other poor half has to stew in his or her own juice.

Is it fair? Let adultery remain the reason for divorce, (though there are at least four other far more practical reasons, habitual drunkenness, cruelty, desertion and insanity) but once it is committed by either partner let each be free, not subject to the prejudice and vindictiveness of the "injured" party. If a man and woman have the courage to face the stigma of "living in sin" I think they should be granted the freedom without further ado. To me, the divorce laws of Canada are a grim joke, and completely unworkable.

Leave It Out

Re your article in Saturday edition about religion in job application forms. I say leave it out except for service men who might need burial. In 1913 when I first came out here, it was a well-known fact in B.C. a man could not get a job unless he belonged to a certain religious sect or lodge.

I agree with S. Leckie-Ewing's criticism concerning the arena. I'm sure the majority failed to patronize the Glenn Miller-Benke Band because in their mind's eye they could visualize the cold hard benches and ugly atmosphere instead of using ear appeal to attract them to such magnificent music.

Old Landmark

The old Victoria West landmark now being demolished, and known as Silver Spring Brewery, was originally built in 1888 by Henry Smith Fairall, who came from the Isle of Wight. It was run by him and his family until 1908—being known as Fairall's Brewery.

It was later sold to a company who also purchased the original Silver Spring Brewery, which then operated behind the Victoria West School. They closed this and transferred their name to the Fairall Brewery.

This property also included the brick building used as a bottling works for soda drinks and the brick house which was the family residence for many years; these all being built by Mr. Fairall, the house now having been demolished.

There are five of the family still living, four of whom still reside in Victoria and one in Coquitlam.

City Bylaw Confusing Magistrate Decides

Ernest M. Foot, 2580 Vista Bay, was acquitted in city police court yesterday of charge of violating the city building bylaw.

He had been charged with permitting continued use of the second and third storeys of a garage at 727 Johnson for storage of automobiles after city inspectors ruled those floors unsafe for such use.

In a written judgment dismissing the charge, Magistrate William Ostler noted some of the bylaws involved were "badly drawn" and "confusing."

Four concurrent terms of nine months definite and four indefinite at the young offenders' unit of Oakalla were imposed by Magistrate Ostler on Richard A. Main, 903 North Park, on four charges of breaking, entering and theft.

Court had been told Main had been employed by a cleaning firm, he had keys to certain business establishments and he took these keys to a party the night of Sept. 23.

After a few drinks, Main left the party that night and again early next morning. Premises entered were George's Beauty Parlor, 633 Port; Chamber of Commerce

Penny Mines Very Active At Toronto

TORONTO (CP) — Penny mines were extremely active in heavy trading Friday. Industrial shares eased somewhat.

Friday the 13th seemed to have little effect on Canadian Duff. The stock, which leaped Thursday on rumors of a rich copper strike, rose 18 cents to $1.62 Friday on the volume of 138,750 shares.

Nealon Mines turned over 340,200 shares in advancing 30 cents to five cents.

Lake Duff, a favorite with speculators for three weeks, lost five cents to $0.75 on a volume of 148,803 shares. Wilsey-Coughlin, which has a property adjacent to Duff, traded 239,900 and was unchanged at 22 cents.

Three-Star High

MONTREAL (CP) — Mines and junior oils reached the highest volume in more than three years on the Montreal and Canadian stock exchanges Friday.

Friday's volume of 1,272,700 shares is the highest since Oct. 1, 1958, when the mining volume was 1,282,000 shares.

Feature of the heavy mining trading was Tache Lake, which rose 11 cents at 24 cents on a turnover of 582,800 shares.

Uneasy Market

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market was uneasy Friday as it declined irregularly in moderate trading. A scattering of stocks responded to speculative demand.

Fresh Advance

LONDON (Reuters) — A fresh advance in gilt-edged securities again provided the bright feature of stock markets yesterday.

Fresh gains were recorded with medium dated stocks prominent. Industrial shares opened on a steady note. Dollar stocks were irregular. Oil shares remained dull and uncertain. In mining, oil shares were irregular while gold shares drifted lower.

Dividends Declared

BLAME SET — Blamed for the closure is "high freight rates" in the shipping of live cattle here from Alberta, lack of fattening facilities in B.C. and pressure from supermarket chains for lower prices.

Bonds Quiet

MONTREAL (CP) — Bond trading was quiet and unchanged yesterday, with a firm undertone. All four classes of bonds, long-term Canadian, short-term Canadian, provincial and corporate, sold at steady prices in light trading.

Polygamy Ban To Be Debated

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UPI) — The General Assembly's social, humanitarian and cultural committee has approved a convention aimed at abolishing child marriages and polygamy.

Individual governments must approve the convention before it will apply legally in their countries.

Unlisted Stocks

The first telegraph cable between Ireland and Newfoundland, laid in 1858, failed after 68 days.

Another Packer Closes

VANCOUVER (CP) — Burns and Company, pioneer Western Canada meat packing firm, will close its Vancouver slaughtering operations and lay off about 270 workers in December, company officials confirmed Friday.

NOT QUITE CORRECT

Here is what the Magazine of Wall Street in its Oct. 7 issue has to say about the B.C. government's take-over of the B.C. Electric.

STOCK DROPS

"B.C. Power shareholders are now left holding the bag and the price of the stock dropped recently to $31 1/2 after selling as high as $39 1/2 this year and $55 1/2 a few years ago."

Dividends Declared

BLAME SET — Blamed for the closure is "high freight rates" in the shipping of live cattle here from Alberta, lack of fattening facilities in B.C. and pressure from supermarket chains for lower prices.

Polygamy Ban To Be Debated

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UPI) — The General Assembly's social, humanitarian and cultural committee has approved a convention aimed at abolishing child marriages and polygamy.

Unlisted Stocks

The first telegraph cable between Ireland and Newfoundland, laid in 1858, failed after 68 days.

A TIDAL WAVE OF HOPE

MR. KRUSHCHEV is 67. He plans to see the Red Flag flying over every country in the world during his lifetime. He thinks he can do it. Every decision and action he takes over Berlin, Laos, the Congo or at the United Nations is measured against this one aim.

He has an ideology.

Nations outside the Communist bloc lack any common ideology or world aim. They are divided amongst themselves. They think that if they stand up to Mr. Krushchev they may be forced into atomic war.

Appeasement is no answer to dictatorship. The idealism of the United Nations without an ideology often becomes the tool for Moscow's aim. Making big speeches to satisfy public opinion at home and backing them by weak action when we meet the Communists at the conference table destroys the faith of the millions in the power of the democratic way of life. Squinting in the streets, however sincere, is no answer to the threat of the H-bomb.

The answer is to stand up and fight in every nation, everywhere, for an ideology that changes Communist and non-Communist alike and unites every race, class and color in the supreme task of the century — the remaking of the world.

Men with an ideology superior to Communism can not only stand up to Mr. Krushchev but enlist him in a greater revolution.

General Carpentier of France, who was in command of the land forces of NATO for Central Europe, and who had the training of the Brazilian Army and commanded the French forces in Indo-China and elsewhere, put the issue clearly at the World Assembly at Caux this year when he said, "We need a tidal wave of Moral Re-Armament to sweep across the world. Then men in Government will be forced to make the right decisions that spring not only from the intellect, but from our hearts and faith."

"THE TIDE OF COMMUNISM CAN BE TURNED"

This tidal wave is flooding across the continents. Marshal Tavora, national hero of Brazil, flew last week to Rome. There he told leaders of the Church and State, "With Moral Re-Armament the tide of Communism in my country and Latin America can be turned."

His colleague General Bethlem, former Brazilian Ambassador in Bolivia and Pakistan, on that same day was meeting in Los Angeles with Mr. Kishi, Prime Minister of Japan until last year. Both General Bethlem and Mr. Kishi had been at Caux two weeks before. The General said, "In Brazil and Peru 900,000 of my countrymen have seen the Japanese play The Tiger in the last few months. Millions more have seen it on television. Its message has already saved Brazil from civil war."

He was referring to a play by the revolutionary students of the Zengakuren of Japan. These students led the riots in Tokyo last year which caused President Eisenhower's visit to Japan to be cancelled. The students changed. They wrote a play describing how Communism had captured them through their own moral compromise and how Moral Re-Armament had taught them to go not right, not left, but straight. Then they went to America and apologized to Eisenhower. He urged them to go to Latin America.

Marshal Joao Tavora, national hero of Brazil

In Manaus, a Communist stronghold of Brazil, a thousand miles up the Amazon River, 90,000 people in one night alone saw a presentation of The Tiger in the football stadium. On the same night the Communist counter-rally across the road, for the anniversary of Castro's Cuban Revolution, drew a total of forty people. One of the students said, "It is the greatest event that has ever taken place in Manaus. It has revolutionized our thinking."

"THE ONLY ANSWER TO THE CRISIS IN BERLIN"

Mr. Kishi, speaking with General Bethlem in Los Angeles, told of how he had discussed with General Eisenhower last week at Gettysburg the impact of the work of Moral Re-Armament throughout the South American continent. He said, "I apologized to General Eisenhower for last year's riots and invited him to come as soon as possible to Japan. I had two objectives in making my present journey around the world. The first was to attend the Moral Re-Armament Assembly at Caux. This Assembly made an impression on me that is both deep and unforgettable. Secondly, I wanted to meet again the world statesmen I had known as Prime Minister. The only answer to the crisis in Berlin and the challenge of Communism today is the ideology of Moral Re-Armament. Nations today must form a solid front, a unity of purpose and of spirit so evident to the Communist world that they will not indulge in miscalculation nor misunderstand our aim and goal. MRA is promoting this unity which transcends all national boundaries and all minor divisions."

In September Mr. Saburo Chiba, for three years Chairman of the National Security Committee of the Japanese Diet, flew straight from Caux to confer with President Prado of Peru. He said that his own experience as head of Security had led him to two conclusions on how to answer Communism: (1) To impact the masses with a more effective ideology and (2) To unite the countries of the free world in a common strategy.

He told the President that no exclusively national plan is adequate today. While the thirteen Communist bloc countries are united in one global strategy, eighty-two nations have not yet reached a common mind and goal. "In order to create a united force in the free world," he continued, "we must create a united force of parliamentarians from every nation. This is already being done in many of the free countries."

Former Prime Minister Nobusuke Kishi of Japan

"TO SAVE DEMOCRACY IN PERU"

President Prado invited Moral Re-Armament to his country "to save democracy in Peru." At the National Stadium in Lima 60,000 people stood in silence for a minute to honour the memory of Frank Buchman, initiator of Moral Re-Armament, before seeing a performance of The Tiger. Ten thousand who could not get in listened over the loudspeakers outside.

A force of these Japanese students went to San Marcos University. This is the University which organized the storming of Vice President Nixon when he visited Peru. Speaking on the Peruvian National Radio after meeting the Japanese, one of these student leaders said, "Five days ago we had riots. Moral Re-Armament has made us understand that the divisions which exist between political groups arise because each group is out for itself. MRA has come at the right moment to Peru."

Another student leader said on the National Radio: "In this atomic age man must give the answer to exploitation by either Communism or capitalism. Here is an ideology which rebuilds the chaotic world today, which gives food to the hungry, work to the unemployed, and fills the empty spirit of man which has been lost in immorality and corruption."

This week in Peru 40,000 people, including thousands of Indians in colorful dress, thronged to the great Sacayhuaman fortress, stronghold of the ancient Inca civilization, now known as the Moscow of Peru, to see The Tiger and hear it in the original Inca language. The head of Indian affairs said, "Your philosophy is going to change the face of the earth bringing justice, bread and an answer."

The Moral Re-Armament force in Latin America is moving from Brazil and Peru to Chile, Bolivia, Uruguay, and other countries of that continent.

IDEOLOGICAL OFFENSIVE IN EUROPE

At the same time a force of 400 from 36 nations is sweeping through countries of Europe in an ideological offensive to answer defeatism, Communism and division. Among them are fifty Chinese from Taiwan headed by General Ho Ying-chin, former Prime Minister of China and wartime Commander-in-Chief of the Chinese armies, who received the Japanese sword of surrender in World War II. General Ho Ying-chin said, "We lost the mainland of China because we lacked an ideology. The materialism in our own life was exploited by the Communists to take over China. We sacrificed our country for our selfishness. I have been more than thirty years a soldier, and I say that the way to secure peace and freedom for the world is Moral Re-Armament."

Prime Minister U Nu of Burma

These fifty Chinese have put their burning convictions into a play called The Dragon, which shows the tragedy of a nation lost through the selfishness of men and gives the hope of an answer.

One of the leading industrialists of Europe, after seeing The Dragon, said, "Nobody who sees this play can be the same again. What I like most about Moral Re-Armament is that it challenges the rich, as it does everybody, to change their whole motive of life."

The former Communist delegate, Hans Bjerkholt, co-founder of the Norwegian Communist Party, spoke last week to 22,000 people at a mass demonstration with the Chinese play, The Dragon, in the football stadium at Lucerne. "We are at the most serious point in the history of mankind," he said, "when the leaders of the West start to waver before Krushchev, our task is to move the masses and give them courage to stand firm. MRA is the superior ideology that has the power to unite East and West. It is the next step forward for Communist and non-Communist alike."

Gabriel Marcel, the French philosopher and playwright, said at Lucerne, "Moral Re-Armament is an immense effort to create a new living fabric of humanity right across the world. In France today more and more men are responding to this road."

Vatland, Swiss Catholic newspaper, wrote of The Dragon, "Thus far the Chinese have been the main agents of world Communism on many fronts in Africa and South America. Now for the first time in the history of the ideological struggle representatives of Free China have appeared on the scene, bringing a trail with their message. We were literally shaken as the play unfolded before our eyes — a play that ends with a brilliant finale as men realize that the power of the ideology of Moral Re-Armament can usher in a new and better age. We made our way home with a great hope in our hearts."

The Moral Re-Armament force and the Chinese are being greeted by crowds of thousands night after night who say that in their message they see hope for peace in the world and the unity of Europe. Civic leaders of Berlin are among those who have invited this force to their city. They believe that the root problem is not a wall that divides a city or a continent but the steady selfishness that separates man from man and all men from the government of God.

Many African countries have invited the forces of Moral Re-Armament to come immediately to their continent. President Kasavubu sent his wife and son as leaders of the Congolese delegation to Caux last month. Speaking on behalf of the delegation, Adolphe Kasavubu, the son of the President, said, "The Congo is at the centre of Africa. If the Congo goes Communist, all Africa will follow. It is not enough to give dollars to underdeveloped countries. We must win the hearts of the people. What we need is an ideology. That ideology is Moral Re-Armament." He told more than a thousand delegates from every part of the world that in the last twelve months 483 radio broadcasts about Moral Re-Armament have gone out in five Congolese languages to all parts of his country on the National Radio.

"MORAL RE-ARMAMENT OR FINAL ANNIHILATION"

U Nu, Prime Minister of Burma, brought a delegation of his countrymen to Caux last month. On leaving he said, "Moral Re-Armament must go on for ever if we want to prevent mankind from plunging into final annihilation. If we want to stop Communism taking hold of the world, we must deal with corruption, bribery, drink, and womanizing. If we want to change corrupt people we must be honest ourselves. That is what impresses me very much at Caux. With this ideology you are bound to succeed."

Rajmohan Gandhi, grandson of the Mahatma, said at Caux, "The issue for the world is not Communism or war, but whether statesmen will undertake the Moral Re-Armament of the Communist and non-Communist worlds. We must go to Washington and Moscow with an ideology that changes men. That is the next step for the Communist and non-Communist alike. Unless we change human nature we can never fulfill the aspirations of the millions in our countries."

An Asian centre for Moral Re-Armament will open next spring near Tokyo to match the centres at Caux and Mackinac. An Assembly for the Americas is being held in Rio de Janeiro next month. Over Christmas and New Year there will be a Pan-African Assembly for Moral Re-Armament at the heart of Africa.

Mr. Krushchev wants to see a different kind of world. Every honest person knows he is right in the conviction that change is needed, however much we disagree with his way of doing it. The leaders of the free world have in Moral Re-Armament an ideology superior to Communism to offer him. Even the most difficult will respond to the firm, united but humble voice of democratic nations morally rearmed. Why should there be catastrophe again when with God remembrance is inevitable?

It is not a matter of left or right: it is a matter of right or wrong.

Communism gave its philosophy to the world last Christmas over the Moscow Radio when it said: "Our rocket has by-passed the moon. It is nearing the sun and we have not discovered God. We have turned lights out in heaven that no man will be able to put on again. We are breaking the yoke of the Gospel, the opium of the masses. Let us go forth and Christ shall be relegated to mythology."

Frank Buchman, in his last words, gave a challenge to the modern world on the sixth of August in Freudenberg when he said, "I want the world to be governed by men governed by God. Why not let God run the whole world?"

It is the hour for heroic decision and emboldened leadership.

Choose ye this day whom ye will serve.

On July 1st, 45,000 jammed the stadium at Recife for a Moral Re-Armament demonstration, the largest gathering in the history of this key seaport of Northeast Brazil. The demonstration took place just three weeks after tanks and troops were rushed there to quell rioting students in the city streets.

MORAL RE-ARMAMENT

IT BEATS ME

By Jim Tang

END OF A DYNASTY? New York Yankees are still rolling on, perhaps the greatest dynasty in professional sports history, but this looks like the season that Montreal Canadiens are going to get tumbled from the perch they have held for quite some time. As a matter of fact, it is quite conceivable that the Canadiens may wind up no better than fourth or, and this may not be as wild as it sounds, even miss the Stanley Cup playoffs.

Canadiens barely retained the National Hockey League championship last season, and they couldn't make it past the semi-finals in cup play. That, as a fellow I know says when he is trying to get those numbered cubes to do the right things for him, is the cousin and the indicator. The Canadiens are in serious trouble, for them, and it's going to be interesting as time shows just how serious it is.

Defeat in the cup playdowns may be an even more telling factor than having to play without Doug Harvey for the first time in 14 seasons, and that's one item which can hardly be minimized.

Chicago Black Hawks beat up, and then beat Canadiens in the semi-finals. They not only proved that it could be done but showed how it could be done. Canadiens can be prepared to face the same type of rugged, aggressive checking all season from opponents who can't help but be heartened by the knowledge that the champs are no longer invincible.

Harvey will be 37 in December, and he no longer can go all out all season. But he was the "glue" on the club, a steady influence on his more-volatile Gallic teammates and a fellow who came up with the big play. Harvey will be missed far more than was Maurice Richard, for Canadiens had replacements who could provide the goals. It is yet to be proven that their roster contains the leader that Harvey was and it's certain it hasn't the defenceman he will be for at least another season.

About the only optimistic note in training camp was struck by Jacques Plante, who strongly indicated a return to old-time form. But this apparent plus could become a minus with Plante's task conceivably much more difficult because of Harvey's absence.

Then, on top of their fears that Harvey will be really missed and the proof that the Hawks, Toronto Maple Leafs and Detroit Red Wings are on the upgrade, came the injuries to Jean Beliveau and Dickie Moore.

As good as they are offensively, Canadiens can not lose such a pair without being hurt. Instead of two "big" forward lines, the Canadiens will start with none. They announced attacking combinations for tonight's 1981-82 debut are: Ralph Backstrom-Domigle Marshall-Bernie Geoffrion; Hern, Richard-Claude Provost-Marcel Binin and Phil Goyette-Bill Hicke-Bobby Rousseau or Gilles Tremblay. It's good talent, but no longer gaudy.

A good start seems unlikely without Moore and Beliveau, who could be out for as long as two months and there is no telling how players who have seldom known losing will react unless the club finds a leader to replace Harvey. Nor is there yet any assurance that Moore's knee will stand up. In fact, with their small forwards sure to get more bouncing than has been the case, the Canadiens could be plagued all season by injuries.

Perhaps fellows like Backstrom and Goyette will blossom into top stars, perhaps Plante could be sensational, the defence more than adequate and Beliveau and Moore could be back quickly, and better than ever. But it's more likely the Canadiens are in for trouble. Leafs, who just missed last season, and Hawks, who fell in the playdowns, should tussle for the lead, and finish in that order.

Canadiens should be good enough even with some bad breaks to finish third but they may have to hustle. Detroit Red Wings have put together a big club and if Gordie Howe stays healthy, Canadiens may have to settle for the last play-off spot.

That's the worst that should happen to them but if early losses cause any demoralization and there are a couple of injuries, they could make the sports story of the year in Canada by missing the playdowns.

The way it looks here is Toronto, Chicago, Montreal, Detroit, New York and Boston in that order with Boston the closest to being a sure thing for the position selected.

NO NOAP: Two or three weeks back there seemed an excellent chance that Victoria would get some Western Hockey League games this season. There was some doubt about whether or not the ice plant would be installed in San Francisco's Cow Palace before the end of the year and Seattle Totems were worried about a parking problem caused by world fair construction near Seattle's Civic Arena.

It was, as it turned out, only a mirage. The Cow Palace was ready for hockey in time and arrangements have been made in Seattle to provide enough parking for hockey fans to stop the Totems from thinking about shifting some of their games here. Now we're sure to learn just how little we have in good winter sports entertainment both no calibre hockey to watch except on television.

U.S. Pros Shoot Into Big Lead After Ryder Cup Foursomes

LYTHAM-ST-ANNES, England (AP)—The United States stormed to a 6-2 lead over Britain at the end of the foursomes in the Ryder Cup golf competition Friday and became 4-1 favorites to retain the golden trophy after today's 16 singles.

Arnold Palmer and Bill Casper teamed brilliantly to win both their foursomes, including a 2 and 1 triumph over the highly-rated British pair of Dai Rees and Ken Bousfield, while Art Wall and Jay Hebert shared the golfing glory by also winning twice.

A crowd of about 17,000 excited fans streamed and surged over the 6,635-yard Royal Lytham and St. Anne's Links. Par is 73 but it varies with the weather.

The Americans took a 3-1 lead at the end of the morning matches, played in warm sun, line.

LONG PUTTS HELP

Two 12-foot putts before a huge, silent crowd at the 18th green helped the Americans to their big lead. Hebert took one for a 1-up victory and Dow Finsterwald calmly rolled in another from the same distance on the 18th in the last shot of the day.

'Save Our Salmon' Cry in Courtenay

By JIM TANG

SOS

In Courtenay that stands for Save Our Salmon, and Thursday night saw the organizational meeting of a club which sported more than 700 members before it was officially started.

The result of an idea by George Bates and enthusiastically backed by Comox Valley residents, the SOS club is out to do something about the serious decline in the spawning runs to the Puntledge River.

It began only a short while back in an unofficial manner with the sale of memberships at one dollar each to raise money to publicize the serious decline in the spawning runs to the Puntledge River.

Top Bowler and Instructor Started Well, Stayed There

By JIM TAYLOR

Pete Gattani is rated by the Brunswick people as an excellent bowler and a better instructor.

Today at Aurora Lanes he will be teaching anyone who cares to drop around and learn. The youngsters of the lanes' junior league get the first chance at 10 a.m., but from then on it's open house.

Gattani has won the Washington State all events and match game competitions twice, the singles once. His all-time high series is 801 (233, 279, 289), and he has four perfect games to his credit.

NEW CONSISTENT

One of the things that makes Gattani such a fine teacher is his own consistency at the game.

His first full season, in 1959, he averaged 190, and his best season ever ended at a 206 average. In that stretch from 1959 to 1961 his composite average is 198.

He obviously knows where of he teaches.

Victoria almost had its third perfect fivepin game this week. Rolling at Capital City Lanes, Cy Wallis strung 11 strikes, came in high with the 12th ball, and finished with 445.

Bowling's younger set had its innings this week.

Gordie Tupper rolled a 401 game in Gibsons Saturday afternoon fivepin league. Arthur Gee had a 320 (221) tenpin series at Aurora Lanes.

and a 236 single in the Victoria High School league at Gibson's. Ross Leach, bowling in the Victoria University League at Aurora, rolled a 233 single on the way to a 528 series.

Leading scores this week:

And Everybody Knows It

Sam Can't Throw Long

OTTAWA (CP)—Ottawa sports columnist Jack Kinella says Sam Etcheverry, quarterback with St. Louis Cardinals of the National Football League, is suffering from a calcium growth in the shoulder of his passing arm.

The condition, Kinella says, has made Etcheverry unable to throw long passes.

The columnist says word of Etcheverry's ailment has leaked to other NFL teams and this was the reason the quarter was "bitten" by New York Giants in a game last Sunday. Giants knew Etcheverry couldn't throw long passes and set their defence for short-range passing.

Etcheverry, riding a two-game winning streak, hosts the league-leading Winnipeg Blue Bombers tonight while Saskatchewan Roughriders visit the Eskimos in Edmonton.

Officially, the Stamps haven't even made sure of a playoff spot. But they lead the Riders by two points with a game in hand, and have been looking stronger every game.

In their only other meeting with the Bombers this season, they lost 27 when Charlie Stamps, riding a two-game winning streak, hosts the league-leading Winnipeg Blue Bombers tonight while Edmonton loss would about wrap it up.

A Calgary win and a Saskatchewan loss would practically clinch a playoff spot for the Stamps, and a Calgary win would officially eliminate B.C. Lions, no matter what the result of their current contest.

Eskimos will play tonight without defensive captain Gino Fracas and tackle Jack Lamb, both injured. Veteran Rolfe Miles is another doubtful starter. The Riders, Stamps and Bombers are all reasonably healthy.

In the Eastern Conference, the race for first place is wide open, and Toronto Argonauts are optimistic that they can still win it in the stretch.

Reasons for all this optimism are that they are only three points behind Ottawa and Hamilton, tied for the lead; Argos have won two straight, and Tobin Ro, the fastest gun in the east, apparently has his passing arm back in shape.

Each club has four games left to play. The Rough Riders play the last place Montreal Alouettes in Ottawa today, and the Argos take on Hamilton Sunday in Toronto.

Ti-Cats Grab Bomber Half

HAMILTON (CP)—Carver Shannon, a halfback who was dropped recently by Winnipeg Blue Bombers after three years with the Western Football Conference club, has been signed by Hamilton Tiger-Cats.

The Tiger-Cats, who have lost three straight games after winning their first seven, need replacement for George Scott, who has been called up by the United States Army.

Each club has four games left to play. The Rough Riders play the last place Montreal Alouettes in Ottawa today, and the Argos take on Hamilton Sunday in Toronto.

Friday, 13th Not So Bad

PAWTUCKET, R.I. (AP)—Friday the 13th was nothing but lucky for one better at Narragansett Park who held the only winning twin double ticket and collected $21,000.00.

His three winning horses were the 70-to-1 Campaign Promise in the fourth, the 50-to-1 Fair Ode in the fifth and the favored Noble Countess in the sixth.

Garden Notes

The Sanitary Plot

By H. V. CHESNUT, FRES
It is rather interesting to compare the methods we use to control and prevent disease and infection in the home with the techniques employed for the same purpose in the garden.

Within the home, we rely upon cleanliness, hygiene and good nutrition to keep us germ-free and healthy — soap and water and the proper sanitary disposal of wastes are our principal weapons against infection. In the garden, we wait until our plants are sick, then, squirt them full of sprays and dusts, making no particular effort to prevent pests and blights. If we followed the same practices in our homes, we would be living in filthy squalor, relying upon "shots" and pills to keep us alive rather than sanitation.

Seems to me we would have a lot fewer of those mysterious losses in the garden if we were to pay a bit more attention to hygiene and sanitation, adapting some of our indoor practices to outdoor uses. A really good clean-up in the fall, for instance, can go a long way toward healthier plants and better growth.

A good example of what I mean can be found in the control of botrytis disease in peonies, an unpleasant fungus infection that dries up or rots the flower buds before they can open.

The infecting organism—a sooty black fungus spore—spends the winter on the bases of the stems of the old foliage, ready to attack the young peony shoots as they come pushing their little red noses through the soil surface next spring. If we cut down all the spent peony foliage at soil level or a little lower, taking it away to the garden bonfire, this simple act of garden sanitation will do more to clean up botrytis than all the sprays and dusts in the garden shops.

Fallen fruit, lying on the ground, provides an ideal winter home for all kinds of pests and disease spores. Grubs hibernate in these windfalls.

emerging as fully-fledged egg-laying winged adults in the spring, ready and willing to infest our trees.

Brown Rot, Apple Scab and a dozen other fruit diseases can live through the winter on fallen fruit and on leaves and other litter that collects in the hedge bottoms, releasing air-borne spores next year to re-infest our trees. A rake and a bonfire are powerful weapons against these plagues.

It is equally bad business to leave any fruit hanging on the trees all winter, for these are another common source of infection. The mere fact that the fruit doesn't fall at the proper season is a sure sign that something is wrong and usually these hangers-on will be mummified fruits by spring, still on the trees and shedding clouds of disease spores to infect your own and your neighbor's trees. All such persistently clinging fruits should be picked or knocked off, gathered up carefully and either destroyed in the incinerator or buried deeply.

That's His Age, Not Speed

Oldest Man of India

He Trots Uphill Daily at 117

By RUKMINI DEVI

BOMBAY (CP) — India's oldest man has been located. He is Khem Das, a 117-year-old shepherd, who says he hopes to live "at least 15 years more."

Das lives in the snowbound Himalayan hamlet of Mathiana in the Manali region bordering Chinese-occupied Tibet. A Bombay reporter sent to interview him said he "looks like a man between 60 and 70 but behaves like a much younger person, active from sunrise to sunset attending to his various chores."

Officials say Das is fast becoming a big tourist attraction and there is anxiety among his 30 grandsons and great-grandsons that the harassment may affect the old man's health.

Das has been ill only three times in his life. He remembers that the last time he was bed-ridden was "some 30 years back."

Every morning he goes to Manali town, two miles downhill, to shop. He climbs back to Mathiana effortlessly. In the afternoon he takes a flock of sheep to graze on a meadow some 2,000 feet above the village. He also tends his modest farm, giving instructions to his grandsons on soil problems.

Das has still some teeth left and says he can "eat anything that a normal person does."

Das is a heavy smoker, as are all mountain people in the Himalayas. The tobacco he uses is raw, powerful and heady. In a day he smokes about 30 hand-rolled cigarettes.

A vegetarian, he loves maize bread, curried milk and butter.

His meals are hearty but he fasts periodically according to Hindu religious custom.

Asked for tips about how to live beyond 100 years, Das said: "Take life philosophically. Never worry. As the scriptures say, do your duty towards God and humanity and leave the rest to destiny."

Hollywood Today

By Sheila Graham

It's Been a Long Road

HOLLYWOOD (NANA) — Dorothy Lamour looks a wee bit more maternally in her sarong for "Road to Hong Kong" than she did when she first donned the garment in 1936. But it doesn't show when Doty stands between Bob Hope and Bing Crosby. Time has marched on for them—and us.

Also for Rita Hayworth, aged 42, and about-to-be husband No. 6, Gary Merrill. In fact, that photograph from Rome has both looking older than they are. Those "dolce vita" photographers must have added some chins and lines.

If they can make a movie of "The Caretaker," then anything is possible. The critics—with the exception of one—raved about the play. Producer Freddie Brown and his wife, Rosalind Russell, have done well with previous stage offerings, turning them into successful movies.

Brigitte Bardot is one of the richest women in France, living frugally and investing her money carefully.

Robert Stack has set next April to make his first feature movie in three years. That is when Bob will have completed his 30 segments, the final batch, of "The Untouchables."

Danny Kaye would like to play Fagin in the movie version, and Rex Harrison would now be very good for the Broadway production of David Merrick's "Oliver." Ben Moody, whom I saw in London, was simply terrific in the role, but he has definitely declined to play the part in New York. A pity. He made you actually like Fagin.

Georgia Brown (Nancy Sykes) signed for two years with Merrick, who is also after Sir Alec Guinness to repeat as "Rosa" when he brings this Lawrence-of-Arabia play to New York.

With husband Michael Wilding set for nine months in his New York play, Mrs. Wilding is busy buying apartments, furnishing them, and then renting them. She made an extra fortune doing this in London.

Peter Ustinov writes, "Casting the title role for 'Billy Budd' was about as difficult as casting Christ." I like his choice—good-looking, dedicated actor Terence Stamp.

Tony Ferkina and Jean Paul Belmondo (of "Breathless" and "Two Women" fame) are joining talents to star in a movie version of "Don Juan," the short story by Prospero Merimee. With so few good young actors, both stars, especially Tony, can pick and choose pictures and plays.

How are your posterior faecal pillars? If they are slack, your popularity rating will probably be down to zero tonight.

For you are one of the unlucky 13 people in every hundred who snore in their sleep—a shortcoming that usually prompts every sort of retribution from savage digs in the ribs to social ostracism.

Posterior faecal pillars (or PFPs) are another name for the soft flaps in the back of the throat. When they relax, the air you breathe makes them flap.

The result can be anything from a soft whistling sound to a passable impression of the "Thunder and Lightning" Polka.

Both snorer and listener suffer, often from mere anticipation of the noise.

The offender lives in fear of dropping off to sleep in public and making a fool of himself. His wife, or whoever happens to be on the receiving end, strains every nerve waiting for the awful racket to start. But this indecent art is by no means confined to men. In fact, a Japanese doctor who has studied snoring all over the world recently stated that women snore outnumber men by two to one.

It's no wonder, then, that snoring causes so many domestic crises.

In the U.S., for instance, it is almost universal. A national survey was breaking up because of his snoring—had more than 300 replies in a week to his advertised plea for a cure.

As evidence of the huge public interest in the problem,

Suggestions ranged from repeating "I shall not snore" a hundred times before bed to eating several small onions at bedtime and drinking goat's milk between meals.

Happily, divorce is not the only solution to this annoying, embarrassing social problem.

Some specialists have recently begun injecting a special "stiffening solution" into patients' throats. This tightens those slack PFPs and prevents them flapping around like tent flaps in your sleep.

But, as the most common cause of snoring is an obstruction in the nose or throat, a minor operation will often solve the problem.

A bit of loose cartilage may be causing all the trouble. Or it could be a deviated septum—an abnormality or crookedness in the bridge of the nose.

The other principal offending object is the uvula, that fleshy lobe hanging down inside the throat. Some of these are naturally outside. A few develop growths; many expand under regular and excessive lubrication with alcohol.

Snipping off the uvula is a simple bit of surgery. In a few instances the only effect has been to make the snore a little higher in pitch, but in the vast majority of cases it has cured the trouble and given patients a fresh lease on life.

If you are an "occasional snorer," there's probably no need to worry. Nearly every one does so at one time or another—when their vocal cords are strained, when they are overtired or tense going to bed, or when they have nightmares.

"Sometimes I'd like to sell it and get a mail someplace to hang my stuff on." Kay's professional life is nice and easy too. She works less than half the year—night clubs, record and three TV shows... "I don't need any more."

Barefoot No More

Scramble's Over Starr Is on Top

LAS VEGAS (AP) — Kay Starr rests easily these days atop her own intense little world of song. But the scramble upward was far from simple.

"I worked hard all my life," said the husky-voiced brunette. "Now I enjoy the new things."

The one-time barefoot girl from Dougherty, Okla., used to go catfishing with her cousins. Since then she's owned a 72-foot schooner. She lives in a lovely home in a fashionable West Los Angeles hill community.

Two new Lincolns—one tan, the other black—sit in the drive. She travels Europe annually. Daughter Cathy, 14, is assured a college education.

"I'm comfortable," said the hazel-eyed Irish-Indian. "And I do all the dull things I don't belong to any wolfpacks."

"My friends are professional people: doctors, lawyers, architects—people I can talk to."

"Show business people are so shallow."

Her conversation is sprinkled about equally with intelligent references to good books and homespun sayings left over from the Oklahoma days.

On Las Vegas' 110-degree plus temperatures:

"I'm as limp as a slug in lettuce."

Another Mars To Be Converted

Officials of Forest Industries Flying Tankers Ltd. will consult with Fairley Aviation Co. engineers at Patricia Bay airport early next week on the conversion of a second Martin Mars flying boat for fighting forest fires.

Five big B.C. timber companies banded together to form Flying Tankers in 1959, purchased four of the huge flying boats, and set Fairley engineers the task of devising means of converting them into flying tankers.

The first successful conversion ended in tragedy June 23 when the 42-ton flying boat Marianas Mars crashed near Parksville while fighting a forest fire at MacMillan, Bloedel and Powell River Ltd. Northwest Bay operations. The four-man crew was killed in the crash.

Fairley was asked to make a survey of costs for conversion of a second Mars for water-bombing. The job is expected to cost about $150,000.

Fourth Candidate For Party Chief?

A fourth candidate appeared ready to throw his hat in the ring for the presidency of the B.C. Liberal Association last night.

Michael Jeffery, Vancouver lawyer and president of the B.C. Young Liberals, said he would announce his decision following a meeting of young Liberals set for tonight.

But his supporters said he had already made up his mind to run for the party presidency.

Three other candidates are Hugh Martin, Jack Taggart and William Gilmour.

Cost to Hospital: $50,000

St. Joseph's Staff Wins Four Per Cent Increase

Some 400 employees of St. Joseph's Hospital will receive a four per cent across-the-board wage increase retroactive to Jan. 1.

A hospital spokesman said estimated cost of the increase for 1961 is about $50,000.

WAY CLEARED

Acceptance of both the hospital board of management and the employees of a conciliation board recommendation to end disagreement over retirement gratuities for superannuated personnel cleared the way for signing of a new contract.

The dispute has dragged on since December, 1960.

An employee spokesman said the 400-member association approved the conciliation report but added a rider stating its objection to the "implied connection between gratuity and superannuation."

Main point of the dispute was management's wish to remove from the existing con-

High-Rise Law Altered To Avoid Court Action

Abuse Charged

'Protection' Probe Ordered

Mayor Percy Scurrell has ordered an investigation of a company selling home protection service to householders.

He said this yesterday after Ald. Michael Griffin mentioned the company's activities during a council meeting.

"I don't think it is necessary for people here to buy protection for their goods and chattels," he said, adding he was not criticizing city police or the Corps of Commissioners.

LAWYER'S LAND

"I think the police are fully competent to deal with the laws of the land."

"This morning I made a cursory check in James Bay and discovered about 25 citizens there in one area have purchased protection. Twenty-five dollars a year is charged.

"I understand the police have already had some complaints over abuse in the selling of this protection."

"... The abuse is in the selling of it. I understand it is a pretty high-pressure type of abuse."

Ald. Griffin said he understood one of the persons selling the home protection was a uniform "very similar to a police uniform."

He suggested council should ask the provincial government to handle the licensing of similar services, as is done with private detectives.

We're New Say Guards

Waiting Ship Restocks

The 500-ton coastal freighter Maria Francisca, which has ridden at anchor in Royal Roads for the past two weeks awaiting cargo, entered Victoria harbor late yesterday to take on fresh supplies of water and stores.

Spokesman for the local agents, King Bros., said last night cargo for Central America is still being sought. The vessel, a former U.S. army transport, was purchased last month by Mexican owners who sent a 13-man crew from Ensenada to sail it home, if possible with cargo.

Two partners in a newly formed private patrol service in Victoria yesterday explained their being checked by city police Thursday night.

About 8:30 p.m. Thursday Mrs. E. Johnson, 244 Superior, answered a knock on the door to find a man in uniform standing there.

HOME PROTECTION

He explained he represented the Western Home Guard Patrol, which was offering a protective service to city households.

After he'd gone following a brief talk, Mrs. Johnson conferred with a neighbor and it was decided to call police.

A city constable investigated and found two patrol men in the neighborhood.

VERY NEW FIRM

He urged them to stop soliciting business until they had proper identification, which they then lacked.

"We're a very new firm," said president Earl Lehna, 1248 Fort, and his partner Armand Guyon of the same address—which is patrol headquarters.

INCLUDING PHOTOS

"We're still trying to get settled and are in process of having proper identification cards, including photographs, prepared for our men."

He explained the firm was concentrating on the James Bay area until it got business enough to expand and still provide proper service.

"We don't want anyone to think we're impersonating policemen," said Mr. Lehna. "Nothing could be farther from the truth. We hope to be able to work with them."

Iberia Visit Likely

A suggestion in the Colonist has been quickly acted upon by Victoria's centennial committee.

An editorial this week pointed out that in view of the fact the P and O Line has scheduled the liner Sa Iberia to visit Seattle next year in recognition of the World's Fair, equal consideration could be expected for a visit of the liner to Victoria during centennial celebrations here.

Shortly after the editorial was published, centennial coordinator Archie Willis called P and O-Orient representatives in Vancouver.

Mr. Willis later said that although the company's representatives did not actually promise a visit by the Iberia, they "expected it would be easy to arrange and set Aug. 6 as the likely date."

Parks Chief Outlines Thetis Park History

Past, present, and future of Thetis Lake Park will be discussed by W. H. Warren, city parks administrator, at a meeting of the Thetis Park Nature Sanctuary Association at 8 p.m. Thursday in the Douglas Building cafeteria.

Facing a threat of court action to block construction of a $970,000 high-rise apartment near Beacon Hill Park because of an alleged illegal building permit, city council yesterday moved quickly to alter its high-rise bylaw.

A public hearing on the proposed bylaw amendment will be held before a council meeting at 2 p.m. Oct. 25.

Threat of legal action was made by Victoria Lawyer Edwin Popham, acting for Alfred Staples, 636 Toronto Street, G. Andrew Dery and E. I. Dery, who have an interest in a two-storey apartment block at 651 Avalon Road, near the site of the high-rise.

AMENITY CIRCLE

Crux of the problem is the "amenity circle" section of council's high-rise bylaw which is aimed at preventing cheek-by-jowl construction of multiple dwellings.

This is a circle with its centre at the building's centre. The size of the circle varies, depending on the size of the building and side setbacks between the edge of the lot and the building. No building's amenity circle is allowed to touch another's.

WOULD CUT ACROSS

Mr. Popham's contention, in a letter to city council, was that the circle provision applies to all buildings in the high-rise area and that the circle of the planned high-rise would cut across the circle of the existing Dery property on Avalon Road.

City Solicitor T. P. O'Grady told council he agreed with Mr. Popham's claim and, in his own opinion, the building permit was illegal and of no effect because it was issued in contravention of the bylaw.

THREE STOREYS

But, he said intent of the bylaw was not to include non-high-rise buildings under the amenity circle provisions.

Council gave preliminary readings to an amendment limiting amenity circle provisions to buildings of more than three storeys.

Mr. Staples, a professional town planner, is employed by the B.C. government. He stressed yesterday he was acting in the matter as a private citizen.

"I am unhappy that the principle of amenity should be granted to one type of new building and denied another type erected before the passing of the bylaw," he said.

"This amounts to a virtual taking of property rights and values and indicates a willingness on the part of the city to write off certain investments in favor of others, a most serious matter for the affected landowner."

City Hotel Suggested For Elderly

Two Victoria women have asked city council to buy the Windermere Hotel, now occupied by the RCMP, for conversion to a senior citizens' recreation centre.

The letters came on the heels of a council decision Thursday to consider construction of a downtown centre for elderly citizens as a centennial project.

Yesterday's letters came from Mrs. Ethel M. Blackwood, Cherry Bank Hotel, and Mrs. A. Carolyn Bayfield, Aberdeen Hotel.

Payroll Plan Big Boost

Staffs Push United Appeal Crucial Home Drive Near

As Greater Victoria's 1961 United Appeal campaign continues to gather momentum, contributions continue to run well ahead of last year's totals.

Total collected to date is $110,572—an increase of almost $30,000 over collections at this same time last year.

PAYROLL SYSTEM

Campaign officials have cited tremendous support by employees of the payroll deduction system for part of the surge ahead.

Since early results are usually indicative of the campaign's support during the residential drive, hopes are high for that phase.

OPERATION DOORBELL

Following a mass rally of 1,500 canvassers and team captains slated for 8:30 p.m. Sunday at the Odeon Theatre, "Operation Doorbell" begins the following day.

"This is a crucial point in the drive," one campaigner said. "Success of the residential campaign will tell the tale."

TEEN-AGERS HELP

Ninety community-conscious teen-agers will join the appeal's residential campaign. Comprising 45 boys and 45 girls, the youngsters are all students of Oak Bay High School. They will participate in the big rally Sunday.

Following a weekly board meeting yesterday, campaign leaders expressed enthusiasm over progress so far.

LOOK AT FACTS

"We get occasional carps from people that we never meet an objective or that interest in the United Appeal is lagging," an official said. "But I wish they'd take a look at the facts."

He pointed out that final returns have increased each year except one ever since 1957. In that year, the total was up two per cent.

The following year registered a 24-per-cent jump and a further seven-per-cent increase was recorded in 1959.

Only in 1960 did the final total dip four per cent from figures the year before.

Since another 5,000 people have been listed as special donors this year, the appeal hopes for greater returns from this facet of the campaign.

Parade Today In Belmont Park

A special fire prevention week parade sponsored by the naval fire department will start at 10:30 a.m. today from the Belmont Park fire station.

The parade will include equipment from the naval fire station and Langford and Colwood fire departments. Also at hand will be a number of Belmont Park children riding bikes, tricycles and scooters.

How Much Is It Worth To Lead the Liberals?

Peter Bruton's NOTEBOOK

THE PRICE IS RIGHT: How much is the presidency of the B.C. Liberal Association worth?

To Hugh Martin, president of Maxwell Construction, it's $3,000—so far.

That's the amount he has spent already on his campaign to win the presidency when the voting takes place at the Liberal Convention here this morning. Signs reading "Go, Go, Go with Hugh" and "I'm for Hugh—are you?" can be seen everywhere you turn in the staid Empress Hotel.

In his campaign rooms you can talk to a pretty girl, get a drink and listen to a pitch as to why you should vote for Hugh.

Mr. Martin himself is busy. "Have you heard the latest they're saying about me?" he said, poking his head around the press room door. "They say I'm anti-semitic. Where do these things start?"

"Pretty rough campaign, eh?" commented a reporter.

"You can say that," declared Mr. Martin with a wave.

The campaign being waged by Jack Taggart, another of the presidential candidates, is a lot more reserved.

Mr. Taggart, a Vancouver lawyer, thinks both Mr. Martin and himself want the same things for the party but says they have different methods of obtaining them.

"What do you think about getting a brass band?" asked one of his campaigners.

"Keep the campaign in a low key," advised another.

The third candidate, Bill Gilmour, a lawyer from Summerland, is described as the "dark horse."

Faced with the go-out-and-get-em tactics being waged by some parties in the fight, his workers set up a stand yesterday with signs reading "Guys and Gals Go For Gilmour."

Free apples were given away instead of drinks.

"Who is going to win?" we asked an organizer.

"I don't know," he replied, "but an awful lot of people are munching apples."

Behind it all was the question being asked by many delegates: Why?

LIBERAL CHIEF: Reporters covering the Liberal convention were given a "briefing" on what was to happen during the two-day meeting.

It was carefully explained how national Liberal leader Lester Pearson would arrive this afternoon, how a police escort would accompany the cavalcade of cars—"If it's fine weather it'll be a convertible"—from Elk Lake and how signs would be displayed reading "Mike is Back in Town."

Then there would be a press conference.

"And listen, fellows," said a Liberal organizer. "Let's try and keep the questions domestic."

Reporters looked blank.

The organizer tried again.

"Yeah. We all know he's the world's greatest statesman so don't ask him any stuff about the United Nations. Let's try and get it across that he's the best man for the job domestically."

A radio reporter broke this up by asking if there was a release time on Mr. Pearson's press conference remarks.

"I don't quite follow," said the organizer.

"Well," said the radio man. "Can we use what he says right away?"

"Sure," muttered a reporter, "as long as his language is okay."

BIBLE BILL: Padre William Mills who gave the invocation at the Liberal convention said there was no mention in the Bible of "Social Credit," "socialism" or "Conservatives."

But he mentioned two Biblical quotations:

"The vile person shall not be called liberal."

"The liberal soul shall be made fat."

Dear Ann Landers: Seven years ago I married a man whose wife died in childbirth. His little girl, Linda, was two years old at the time of our marriage. Tom's sister took the baby when she was a week old. He pays $50 a month for her keep.

Now Tom and I have two daughters of our own. When Linda comes to visit us week-ends it's an endless battle. She's sloppy, ill-mannered, and tries to beat me up. The girl is very much overweight and smacks candy and pop behind my back.

Linda says she wants to live with us all the time because our house is prettier than her aunt's, there are better things to eat here, and more to do in our neighborhood. I'm afraid she'll cause nothing but trouble in our family and I don't want her. Tom says it's up to me.

Of course I feel guilty but what shall I do?—TINA.

Dear Tina: This unfortunate child needs love and understanding. She would get neither in your home.

You are not sufficiently wise not to accept the challenge of coping with Linda. I suggest that you make an appointment with an expert on problem children. When you get some insight into Linda's emotional needs you may then reconsider.

Watch Out For Belts

Many women have felt like belting the manufacturer when the belt which came with a good dress fell apart after a few washings, cleanings or just wearings.

Now comes some advice on the subject from Herbert Novick, the president of the Belt Association of America.

Novick says that good belts are made that will outlast the garments they decorate or accessorize. If the belt doesn't match in quality the dress it circles, you're the victim of a "short change" route by the manufacturer, he said. The manufacturer has cut costs by using a cheaper belt.

Novick said the customer should go back to the store and report any "short-changing," because "this is the only way the dress buyer can be alerted that she is dealing with a 'skimpier'."

"And if the manufacturer cheats a little in the belts, he can be expected to do the same in the fabric, the trimmings, the seams and the overall workmanship," said Novick. "The store and its buyer can learn only from you, and you'll find them grateful for pointing this out."

"Just remember," said Novick, "You have the right to expect a good belt on a good dress."

Rose, in a candle-light ceremony in Knox Presbyterian Church, Sooke.

Dr. E. A. Wright officiated at the ceremony. Mr. Milton

Gibson was organist, and Mrs. Myrtle Piercy sang "The Wedding Prayer" before the ceremony. During the signing of the register, Mrs. Helen Yost sang "I'll Walk Beside You." Tall baskets of autumn-toned chrysanthemums decorated the church.

The bride's gown was fashioned with a sweetheart neckline and elbow-length sleeves. She wore a matching pale blue waist length two-tier veil, and a pearl coronet. She carried white rosebuds.

Miss Frances McEwen was only attendant, in a beige brocade dress with velvet trim. She wore a beige velvet hat and carried shaded bronze chrysanthemums.

The groom had Mr. Wallace Hunter as best man, and usher were Mr. Len Shepherd, brother of the bride, and Mr. Don Rose, nephew of the groom.

A three-tier wedding cake centred the bride's table at the reception which followed at The Grouse Nest. The cake was made by the bride's grandmother, Mrs. S. R. Roskelley, and great aunt, Mrs. C. Barnes. Mr. Robert Gibson proposed the toast.

For travelling the bride donned a forest green wool boucle suit with three-quarter length coat, beige and brown accessories and a pale yellow rosebud corsage.

Mr. and Mrs. Rose now live at 1938 Trans Canada Highway. Out-of-town guests were the bride's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Johnstone, Nina, Patti and Paula from Portland, Ore.; Mr. and Mrs. Reg Piercy, Courtney.

N.Z. Lures Teachers Home

WELLINGTON (Reuters)—A motherhood allowance for married women who return to teaching is one of the baits being held out by the New Zealand government in its efforts to overcome a shortage of teachers.

Education Minister William Tennant has announced that for married women teachers every three years spent bringing up a family will be regarded as equivalent to one normal salary increase up to four increases.

"Experience with growing children is of great value to a teacher, and I hope many married women will be induced to come back to teaching," Tennant says.

Another inducement is free air passage to New Zealand for up to 50 New Zealand primary school teachers now in England, on condition that they serve two years where directed and one additional year in a place of their own choice. These teachers must have performed minimum teaching obligations before leaving New Zealand.

Other moves include the appointment of additional personnel and recruiting officers, removal of restrictions on the salaries of primary school teachers so they will be paid equal rates with permanent teachers and appointment of teachers' aides where staffing is particularly unstable.

Freer-Gale Wedding

As wedding music sounded through St. Mark's Anglican Church recently, Miss Kathleen Ann Gale, dressed in traditional white, was escorted up the aisle by her father for her marriage to Mr. Gordon Leslie Freer.

Canon Robert Willis officiated at the ceremony before an altar decked with autumn flowers. The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eric W. W. Gale, Anaheim, California, and the groom, son of Mr. L. Freer, 1241 Quadra Street and Mrs. E. Freer, 1263 Fort Street, exchanged wedding rings.

The bridegroom, in halcyon length, was full skirted and fashioned with a scooped neckline, longilly point sleeves trimmed with satin. Her chapel length veil of illusion net mistled from a coronet of sequins, and her cascade bouquet was of red roses and white carnations. She wore pearl jewelry.

The bride's sister, Miss Phyllis Gale, was maid of honor, in a full skirted gown of yellow chiffon, complemented with a bouquet of yellow carnations. Miss Dianne Oliver, the bride's cousin, was bridesmaid, in a gown of blue organza and a bouquet of blue carnations. They wore matching bow handresses. Flower girl, Lorilee Gale, the bride's little sister, wore a short, full-skirted frock of pink nylon, and carried a colonial bouquet of pink carnations.

The groom had his brother, Mr. Gary Freer, as best man, and ushers were Mr. Robert Hoy and Mr. Robert Gould. Guests gathered at Hampton Hall for the reception which followed the ceremony. Mr. S. P. Oliver, the bride's uncle, proposed the toast.

A turquoise dress, beige tweed coat and beige and copper accessories were worn by the bride for her going away outfit. After a trip up-island and to Seattle, the newlyweds have made their home at Chestnut Grove, 210 Gorge Road.

for one tulip

That's what one avid tulip fancier paid for his tulip during the Tulipomania (tulip madness) which afflicted Holland and its neighbors from 1634 to 1637. But today — you need pay so much less (most bulbs sell for under $1.00 a dozen) for these beautiful blossoms from Holland. Bulbs from Holland — tulips, daffodils, hyacinths, crocuses — are the result of centuries of breeding and cultivation. Intensive research is still carried on by the Dutch to give the world the finest bulbs. And Dutch bulbs are so easy to plant. They grow almost anywhere. Just dig a hole. Drop them in and walk away until spring. Then come back and pick a bloom. Give it to your husband, wife, mother or lover — and hope for the best. Your garden supplier carries so many different colours and varieties of bulbs from Holland. One thing is certain: when it says "Imported from Holland" you buy the best. Wrong to Bar Shelter

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The fact that people are even discussing a thing, he said, is one proof it's wrong to put fallout shelter construction on an every-family-for-itself basis.

Rev. L. C. McHugh of the Catholic magazine America, said recently neighbors trying to break into a family shelter could be considered as "unjust aggressors" and repulsed by violence if necessary.

Bishop Dun replied: "We might be able to get such people into community shelters. But I suspect the kind of man who will be most desperately needed in a post-attack world is least likely to dig himself a private mole-hole that has no room for his neighbor."

SUPREME EMPHASIS

"I do not see how any Christian conscience can condone a policy which puts supreme emphasis on saving your own skin, without regard for the plight of your neighbor. Justice, mercy and brotherly love do not cease to operate, even in the final apocalyptic."

ON MAJOR SCALE

"It should be plain," he said, "that only community planning on a major scale can possibly provide anything approaching an adequate shelter system."

CHURCH NOTES

First regular Sunday services in St. John's Anglican church since the ruinous fire of last Dec. 9 will be held this weekend and will, appropriately, be the congregation's Harvest Thanksgiving Festival.

St. John's Holds Harvest Festival

Thursday evening the rebuilt church was reopened and rededicated by Most Rev. Harold Sexton, Archbishop of British Columbia, in ceremonies attended by Anglican clergy, parishioners and laymen from all over the diocese.

Cases of Scandal

The shortage is also due to the great increase of churches. More men are going into the ministry than ever before, but the ambitious building programs of new churches have increased demands. It is high time to give serious thought to the contemplative competition that has led in many cases to scandalous over-churching particularly in suburban areas.

Court Cases In Doubt In Vancouver

VANCOUVER (CP)—A ruling by a city magistrate that Vancouver's zoning and development bylaw could not be made retroactive to affect property before it was passed was seen by legal experts on Friday as a possibly having widespread effects.

Six Days in Trunk

SEATTLE — An Alaska woman, her hand waving feebly through a hole punched through the back seat of a car, was found Friday locked in the car trunk on a ship that had been at sea six days.

The woman, identified as Francesa Mario, about 40, apparently had been in the car trunk since the steamship Tosina left Cordova, Alaska. She was taken to hospital for treatment of stiffness and exposure.

Alaska Steamship Co. said the car was put aboard by Anna Uganiza, 53, a fisherman who flew here ahead of the steamship. Uganiza said the woman apparently took it upon herself to follow him to Seattle.

Police said they found some food in the trunk and the woman may have obtained a little water from moisture condensation.

LOS ANGELES — Former child actor Bobby Driscoll was referred to psychiatric court to determine if he is a narcotics addict.

GETTYSBURG, Pa. — Former president Dwight Eisenhower went to the "theatre" to celebrate his 71st birthday anniversary with his family. The theatre was the home of his son, Col. John Eisenhower. Players were his three granddaughters, Barbara Ann, 12; Susan, 9, and Mary Jean, 6. The children put on the play which depicted scenes in the life of Abraham Lincoln as a surprise for their famous grandfather.

WASHINGTON — Maj. Gen. Edwin Walker, relieved of a European command in a controversy over his troop indoctrination program, has been assigned to the headquarters of the U.S. Army of the Pacific in Hawaii.

KARACHI, Pakistan — Camel driver Bashir Ahmed left aboard a jet plane for his trip to the United States as guest of Vice-President Lyndon Johnson.

NEW DELHI — Indian Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru will make a nine-day visit to the United States beginning Nov. 5.

FREDERICTON — Lord Beaverbrook, Canadian-born British publisher, Friday was reported recovering from a brief attack of menieres disease.

MANFALCONE, Italy — Gilberto Visintin, 19, was sentenced Thursday to three months in jail for sticking women passersby with a needle. Visintin told the judge: "Some of them liked it."

NOTTINGHAM, England — David Sharrard, a 22-year-old electrician, was fined £10 here for biting a piece off the ear of a fellow guest at a wedding reception. "I only meant to nip it," Sharrard told a court.

ACTON, England — Night watchman Andrew Carling, 21, grabbed a sabre when five men broke into the sword factory where he works. The burglars parried neatly. They overpowered him, took his blade, bound and gagged him and emptied the safe.

CHARLOTTETOWN — Lady Baden-Powell, in her 70s, world chief of the girl guide movement, suffered a slight heart attack while attending a luncheon here.

DERBY, England — Siamese twins joined at the head were born Thursday to John Saunders, 28, and his wife, Beryl, 25.

Tories Back Lloyd

BRIGHTON (CP) — The Conservative party's annual conference gave overwhelming, though non-enthusiastic support Friday to treasury chief Selwyn Lloyd's economic austerity program.

CRACKED DOWN — One disaster had strongly attacked Lloyd as "unwise and foolish and unfair," because he cracked down on workers in his anti-inflationary moves without seeking equal sacrifices from businessmen.

The 4,000-delegate convention gave Lloyd's three-month-old program its backing in a resolution. His measures include tighter credit and a call for a pause in pay increases.

TWO-YEAR LIMIT — Lloyd's critic, MP Sir Cyril Osborne, said Lloyd also should insist on a two-year statutory stock dividend limit, a capital gains tax, tighter control of expense accounts and deferment of six-month-old excess profits tax concessions until the British economy was in better shape.

Boy Shoots Father In 'Decision for Life'

ROTTERDAM, N.Y. (UPI) — An 11-year-old boy shot and killed his father Friday to prevent him from carrying out a threat to wipe out his family of three with a shotgun.

Paul Berrian, a bright fifth-grader, shot his father, Harold, 43, an unemployed construction worker, in the back as Berrian struggled with his wife for possession of the shotgun. The boy used another shotgun his father had loaded.

"He made a horrible decision," said Assistant District Attorney Henry Bradt. "Right or wrong, he will live with it the rest of his life."

Paul's sister Lynda, 14, and brother John, 4, witnessed the shooting.

Bradt described Paul as a "very intelligent boy" who knew what he was doing, although he had never fired a gun.

District Attorney Vincent Cerrito said: "Our investigation at this point does not justify our holding anyone at this time."

The slaying occurred in the dining room of the Berrian home after Berrian returned home about 4 a.m. from an evening of drinking.

"I picked up the other gun (a single-barreled shotgun) and told him to stop it, but he wouldn't listen to me and I shot him," the boy told police.

Abdication In Yemen Ruled Out

CAIRO (AP) — Reports that the aging, ailing Imam Ahmad of Yemen was abdicating were discounted by a Yemeni prince and branded by the Egyptian radio Friday as incorrect.

Prime el Hassan Ibn Aly, deputy of the Imam in Cairo, was commenting on reports the Yemen radio announced the Imam was stepping down in favor of the crown prince.

He added Crown Prince Half al Islam al Bahr Mohamed is undergoing medical treatment in Italy, and said he believed in his absence abdication was impossible.

Singapore Merger Sought by Malaya

LONDON (Reuters) — Malayan Premier Tunku Abdul Rahman will come here next month for exploratory talks with Prime Minister Macmillan on a proposed merger of Malaya with neighboring Singapore. It was announced here.

Rahman has also put forth proposals for a closer link among Malaya, Singapore, North Borneo, Brunei and Sarawak.

A statement from Macmillan's headquarters said Rahman's idea "has great possibilities for the well-being of all territories involved."

Yes, this is Olds for '62... and there's no mistaking it! For who else but Olds could mold beauty with such a flair? Who else could so masterfully design interiors that attain a new peak of rich stylish comfort, yet retain the distinctive Olds tastefulness? And who else but Oldsmobile could marry Skyrocket power to a new transmission with such model precision that a new depth of motoring pleasure is born—the joy of complete command and the solid "feel" of geared-to-the-road stability? Yes, this is Oldsmobile! This is the car with the "SOMETHING EXTRA" for everyone.

4-S HYDRA-MATIC...Means Transmission Magic for You with...

New Smoothness. There's a special smoothness built into this entirely new transmission... a new pressure-compensated shift pattern that flattens normal automatic-shift peaks—and without power loss!

New Silence. From first take-off to legal cruising through all four speeds—there's a quietness that's enjoyably new—enjoyably yours.

Constant Control. For '62 this new Oldsmobile transmission adds the safety of more efficient downhill engine braking in all speed ranges—plus an exceptionally authoritative passing gear.

Superior Response. Rocketing "go" begins with the touch of your foot! Never before has a transmission offered such instant action. Test it—and you'll believe it.

Where Did Crew Go From 1944 Wreck?

VANCOUVER (CP)—The RCAF has closed the file on the mysterious disappearance of an air force Mitchell bomber on a coastal navigation flight 17 years ago with discovery of the wreckage on Vancouver Island.

Air force spokesmen said Friday investigation of the wreckage which a prospector stumbled over in the rugged bushland near Mount Sennett on the island's northwest coast yielded no trace of the plane's crew of four Royal Air Force personnel.

"Not even a shoe was found," the spokesman said. "The conclusion is that the crew left the plane in the air before it crashed."

The bomber, K-for-Kenneth 319, is one of 15 planes, both military and civilian, which have vanished over B.C.'s rugged terrain since 1944.

The twin-engine Mitchell took off from Abbotsford July 14, 1944, on a routine coastal navigation flight.

WENT SILENT

It was in touch with its base by radio until something went wrong and the radio went silent.

Last week prospector Magnus Brantland of Vancouver found the remains of the bomber strewn in thick undergrowth. A helicopter from RCAF search and rescue took a ground party to the area and they found the wreckage choked with weeds but its tires still inflated. But there was not a single trace of its crew, which has long since been presumed dead.

Overlooked Dozen Now Counted

VANCOUVER (CP)—Common official said Friday 12 residents on the Island Highway near Courtenay were missed during the summer census.

Dennis Francis, advised that one of the residents, Mrs. Ada Long, had reported the oversight to a newspaper, made a quick check and said: "Can't think how it happened, but thanks for letting us know."

"Ottawa will be told about it," said Francis of the left.

Travellers' Official To Visit City Monday

Charles W. Bull of Seattle, grand councillor of Oregon, Washington, and British Columbia of the United Commercial Travellers of America, will visit Victoria Monday.

He and Mrs. Joyce Lower, also of Seattle, grand councillor of the women's auxiliary, will attend a special dinner meeting arranged by the Victoria chapter of the UCT at 6:30 p.m. Monday at Holyrood House.

At least 100 members from Victoria, Nanaimo, Vancouver, and Seattle are expected to attend.

The two officials will speak on the care of retarded children.

Maintaining the Elford Street retarded children's school is the main project of the Victoria UCT branch.

Hundreds of members in southern Vancouver Island contribute to the home annually.

Public Service Union Backs New Democrats

MONTREAL (CP)—The 29,000-member National Union of Public Service Employees (CLC) Friday adopted a resolution of support for the New Democratic Party.

"This country is being run by capitalistic interests and we in the labor movement have no say and no participation in the government," said delegate Bill Baker of Toronto, at the union's annual convention.

Adventure in Music Delight in Duncan

By BERT BINNY

DUNCAN — Fresh, melodious piano playing together with a fine orchestral performance were provided by guest artist Marek Jablonski and the Victoria Symphony Orchestra at Duncan last night.

One of the largest audiences in years was on hand at Cowichan High School for the first in a series of four concerts this season.

SINCERE APPROACH

Pianist Jablonski's performance of Mendelssohn's G-Minor concerto was marked by a sincere approach which made the whole affair like a joyous adventure in music. Yet at the same time there was a complete absence of affectation and the enthusiastic response of the audience was unmistakably well deserved.

The concert opened with a suite from the dramatic works of Henry Purcell arranged by Sir John Barbirolli.

In this the "Glancing Fire" of Purcell mentioned in the program sometimes burned a little low where greater intensity seemed to be required but the suite as a whole did justice to the composer's changing moods.

A very enjoyable evening was brought to a close with the performance of Beethoven's Eighth symphony.

Symphony Plans

Music for Pupils First on the List

With one successful concert under their belts — and the prospects of an outstanding season ahead—Victoria's Symphony Society planners went into high gear at a meeting this week.

Emphasis of the expanding program this year will be on bringing good music to school and university students, said society president Jack Barracough.

A committee has been formed to organize a special program of "music appreciation" sessions for students at Victoria University. Possibility of giving short performances by visiting artists at student gatherings will also be considered.

The popular Greater Victoria student concert series will be continued this year and will be carried to Duncan, Cobble Hill and other places despite a trimmed grant from Canada Council.

PRIVATE DONOR

Referring to the grant, which this year was pared from $12,500 to $9,000, Mr. Barracough said a recently received grant from a private donor had "helped to soften the blow considerably."

The society and its guarantors do not intend to cut the orchestra's activities to fit the reduction in Canada Council money, but will rather rely on additional public support.

MUSIC COURSE

Another close tie between the orchestra and the university may result from an accredited course in music now under consideration.

Under the plan, conductor Hans Gruber would give a series of lectures at the university.

All Humanity Must Survive —Chisholm

VERNON (CP)—Dr. Brock Chisholm said Friday that if humanity is to survive it must begin thinking in terms of the whole human race.

Dr. Chisholm, addressing some 900 delegates to the Okanagan Valley Teachers' Association convention here, said it was no longer good enough to think in terms of one's own survival group.

"Our survival group has become the whole human race," he said. "It is basic that we educate people whose first moral principle is human survival."

Accused Acquitted On Judge's Order

Returning a verdict directed by Mr. Justice T. W. Brown, an assize court jury yesterday acquitted Ronald Dale Haas, Vancouver, of breaking and entering with intent.

The case arose from a break-in last April at Cunningham Drugstore in Sidney, when an attempt was made to open the safe.

After telling the jurors yesterday certain evidence considered in their absence had been ruled inadmissible, Mr. Justice Brown said:

"You were told by the prosecutor, W. R. McIntyre, that the evidence in this case was all circumstantial — which is quite satisfactory if it weaves a net about the accused.

"Rejection of this other evidence has left the prosecution with suspicion only, and conviction on suspicion is impossible."

Mr. Justice Brown said that, although the courts preferred to leave all such decisions to the jury, there were times when by law the judge had to step in and direct a verdict of acquittal.

Next trial in the court will open at 11 a.m. Monday, when former Victorian John Blair faces judge and jury on a charge of fraud involving a real estate deal.

Douglas Introduces Health Care Bill

REGINA (CP)—A bill was introduced Friday in the special session of the Saskatchewan legislature, providing for the comprehensive medical care scheme that the CCF government promised in the campaign prior to the June, 1960, provincial election.

The bill was given first reading and will be given second reading Tuesday. After that it will go to the committee-of-the-whole for detailed study before being given third and final reading.

Financing methods will come up in a bill later this session, Premier T. C. Douglas said Friday in the throne speech debate.

The plan will be administered by a separate commission, responsible to the minister of public health.

It is expected to go into operation either April 1 or July 1, 1962.

YOUTH BLOWS HAND OFF WITH HOME-MADE BOMB

Sip for Bomb Victim

Oak Bay Vault to Give Up Bones for Historic Burial

The bones of 849 Chinese, locked away in a vault in the Chinese Cemetery on Penzance Road, Oak Bay, will be buried on the site Sunday afternoon in the only traditional Chinese burial ceremony ever to be held in Canada.

The bones—gathered from across Canada more than 25 years ago for shipment to Hong Kong—will be interred in a mass grave.

The ancient Chinese burial practices have been discontinued in Canada since the Communist seizure of power on the mainland of China. Bodies were first buried here and left in the ground for eight years. Then the bones were disinterred and returned to the old country for traditional burial ceremony.

The mass of bones stored at the Chinese cemetery in little boxes was held there during the Second World War and would have been shipped to China in 1946 had the Communists not refused to accept them.

On a number of occasions vandals have broken in and scattered the bones.

The ceremony, slated for 2:30 p.m. Sunday, has never been held in Canada before and—because of the changed burial practices—will likely never be held again.

The Chinese community is considering plans for conversion of the old cemetery into a public park.

A Central Saanich youth had his left hand blown off by a home-made bomb yesterday afternoon.

Alan Bompas, 17, 1932 Mount Newton Cross Road, was later reported in "good" condition and under sedation in Rest Haven Hospital at Sidney.

The tragic mishap brought a stern warning from Central Saanich Police Chief F. L. Brownlee for parents to keep their children away from explosives.

IT'S TOO LATE

Russell Bompas, saddened father of the injured youth, said his son "admits the fallacy of the action... but it's too late."

The youth, a Grade 11 student keenly interested in chemistry, was alone at home when the tragedy occurred about 4:30 p.m.

He told a Colonist reporter at his bedside last night:

"I bent one end of a pipe closed in a vise, and filled the pipe with a mixture of potassium chlorate, sulphur and charcoal."

FOUNDED END

"I was pounding the other end closed with a hammer. There must have been enough heat from the blows to ignite the powder."

He said he experimented with explosives "many times" in the past because he enjoys it.

After the accident, Alan ran down the road for help. He was taken to hospital by Central Saanich ambulance.

Alan, eldest of four children in the Bompas family, was permitted to stay home from school yesterday because he had flu. The others were on their way home from school. His mother was in town on business and his father was still at work at the time of the accident.

Reckless Conduct Of Berlin Reds Protested by U.S.

BERLIN (AP) — The United States command Friday protested to Soviet officials against "reckless and illegal conduct" of East German border guards.

Earlier in the day the guards fired wildly as nine truck-borne refugees broke through the Communist fence.

None of the U.S. military and West Berlin police who rushed to the wooded scene was reported hurt in the hour-long shooting in early morning half-light. They did not return the fire.

ALL INCIDENT

The protest referred to both the latest incident and earlier shooting incidents involving East German police along the border.

East German police again opened fire in the evening when two East Berliners fled into the French sector near Bernauerstrasse. West Berlin officials said the two escaped unhurt across railroad sidings near the border. East German guards stopped firing as soon as the pair had succeeded in crossing the border and did not shoot into the French sector.

Blacks Burn Louv Effigy

JOHANNESBURG (AP) — South African Foreign Minister Eric Louw was burned in effigy Friday on the steps of city hall by a crowd of Negroes, Indians and mulattoes who proclaimed on posters "we support the UN censure."

This referred to a censure vote by the United Nations General Assembly Wednesday after Louw defended South Africa's racial policies.

Aged U.S. Satellite Just Won't Shut Up

WASHINGTON (AP) — A year after it was supposed to have gone silent, the United States satellite Explorer VII was still broadcasting from space Friday, its second birthday. This could go on for years.

The solar-powered radio of the 9 1/4 pound space vehicle was supposed to have clamored up automatically a year ago Friday, so as to free the radio frequency employed for use in some other satellite.

But a timing device failed to function, so Explorer VII went right on broadcasting scientific data about radiation conditions at the altitudes of its orbital pathway—some 340-to-670 miles above the earth.

The trouble is the three-foot high, 30-inch diameter satellite had already done a superlative job of scientific reporting by the time it reached its first birthday. Thus, its space chatter is largely repetitive.

Gypsies Asking UN For Island Nation

PARIS (Reuters) — Gypsy "King" Valda Volvod III Friday announced plans to found a Gypsy state called Romanestan for his 9,000,000 subjects on virgin territory allotted by the United Nations.

He told a press conference here that a draft international statute for the Gypsies will be submitted to the UN asking for juridical and social protection for Gypsies throughout the world and provision of land for them to establish Romanestan.

He proposed an island in the Atlantic or Pacific as a site for a Gypsy state and said it would be modelled on Israel to show that the Gypsies were capable of developing virgin or barren soil.

The subject will be discussed at a world Gypsy congress due to be held in Paris next month.

British Race Wall of Lava

CAPETOWN, South Africa (UPI)—British landing parties raced an advancing wall of lava yesterday to rescue equipment from a crawfish cannery on the doomed volcanic island of Tristan da Cunha.

Officials expect the volcano's eruption, which forced removal of residents of the South Atlantic Ocean island this week, to destroy Tristan da Cunha's factories and homes.

But island administrator Peter Wheeler, along with seamen from the British frigate Leopard and two crawfish vessels, braved the advancing flow and the rain of sulphur and ashes to save whatever they could. Most of the islanders had fled with only as many possessions as they could carry.

Grits Grind to Halt In Quorum Quibble

By PETER BRUTON

A bitter, shouting, procedural hassle erupted on the floor of the B.C. Liberal Association convention last night—and ended with delegates disregarding the fact that they did not constitute a quorum.

The storm blew up over proposed changes to the Liberal constitution—amendments which many delegates felt should first be discussed at local branch levels.

Chairman Allan Cox of Oak Bay reversed his stand left and right as delegate after delegate rose on points of order.

NOT A QUORUM

One delegate said the resolutions could not be discussed because there was not a quorum of 250 delegates as demanded in the party constitution.

Mr. Cox said there was a quorum. Then he said it was not necessary for there to be 250 people present. Delegates demanded a vote.

By this time a number of people who had not been in the hall at the time the row started had come in.

Mr. Cox said he "hated" to do it but he was going to rule that the doors be closed.

A count was made, but before it was announced, other delegates said people outside should be allowed to come in to vote.

Mr. Cox then ruled that the doors be opened and that everyone outside should be counted. He ruled that proxies could be exercised, then said they couldn't.

GLUM RESULT

He then glumly announced the result: 178 people.

"The rules call for 250," said Mr. Cox. "Therefore we are unable to proceed with the business of the meeting."

Delegates protested this.

"This is a very, very bad thing for a Liberal convention to adjourn like this," said Tom Goode, former Liberal MP.

SHORT ADJOURNMENT

It was decided to adjourn the meeting for 30 seconds and that when the meeting began again no one would call for a quorum.

Mr. Cox turned his gavel over to Don Lanskaill.

"I have now left the chair, thank God," declared Mr. Cox. ONLY WHEN

"Is it your wish to go ahead with constitutional resolution?" asked Mr. Lanskaill. "My only wish is to get out of here," said Mr. Cox.

Delegates then solved the whole question—they decided that the amendments which caused the flap should be referred back to the local branches.

Long Mountain Range Found Beneath Pacific

WASHINGTON (AP)—The survey ship Pioneer has discovered a 1,000-mile chain of undersea mountains in the North Pacific Ocean, Secretary of Commerce Luther Hodges reported Friday.

There are 34 peaks in the range which rise from 3,000 to more than 6,000 feet from the sea bottom in the area just south of Alaska and the Aleutians and extending about half the distance from Alaska to the Hawaiian Islands.

Hodges said one of the peaks rises 6,270 feet in an area where existing charts show almost a flat bottom.

Another Mars To Be Converted

Officials of Forest Industries Flying Tankers Ltd. will consult with Fairley Aviation Co. engineers at Patricia Bay airport early next week on the conversion of a second Mars flying boat for fighting forest fires.

The first successful conversion ended in tragedy June 23 when the 42-ton flying boat Marianas Mars crashed near Parksville while fighting a forest fire at MacMillan, Bloedel and Powell River Ltd. Northwest Bay operations. The four-man crew was killed in the crash.

Fourth Candidate For Party Chief?

A fourth candidate appeared ready to throw his hat in the ring for the presidency of the B.C. Liberal Association last night.

Michael Jeffery, Vancouver lawyer and president of the B.C. Young Liberals, said he would announce his decision following a meeting of young Liberals set for tonight. But his supporters said he had already made up his mind to run for the party presidency.

Three other candidates are Hugh Martin, Jack Taggart and William Gilmour.

Not in Ambulance Business Says Parksville Fire Chief

COOMBS—Fire Chief W. G. Wheeler of Parksville wants it known his volunteer fire department is "not in the ambulance business."

His department's new emergency vehicle is primarily a "rescue truck" and will not interfere with the operations of District 69 Ambulance Society, the chief told a recent meeting of the society's directors.

Residents of the area should not telephone the fire department for ambulance service, he said.

Chief Wheeler said the rescue truck will answer first aid calls anywhere in the district on the request of RCMP and will assist at Qualicum Beach if requested by the Qualicum Beach fire department.

The ambulance society will hold its annual meeting Thursday in the parish hall at Parksville.

GANGES—Fire destroyed a pump house and pump equipment here recently on the property of Edward Lumley, Churchill Road. Building was ignited by a grass fire.

NANAIMO—Sea Cadets and Air Cadets will join with the Royal Canadian Legion here for what is expected to be the finest centenary parade ever held here.

Legion president Colin Murcheson said last night meetings are being held with other groups to arrange the parade. Three bands are expected to take part in the march.

High-Rise Law Altered To Avoid Court Action

Abuse Charged

'Protection' Probe Ordered

Mayor Percy Scourrah has ordered an investigation of a company selling home protection service to householders.

He said this yesterday after Ald. Michael Griffin mentioned the company's activities during a council meeting.

"I don't think it is necessary for people here to buy protection for their goods and chattels," he said, adding he was not criticizing city police or the Corps of Commissioners.

LAWYER OF LAND

"I think the police are fully competent to deal with the laws of our land."

"This morning I made a cursory check in James Bay and discovered about 25 citizens similar services, as is done there in one area have purchased protection. Twenty-five dollars a year is charged.

"I understand the police have already had some complaints over abuse in the selling of this protection."

"The abuse is in the selling of it. I understand it is a pretty high-pressure type of abuse."

Ald. Griffin said he understood one of the persons selling the home protection wore a uniform "very similar to a police uniform."

He suggested council should ask the provincial government to handle the licensing of similar services, as is done with private detectives.

Home Patrol

We're New Say Guards

Waiting Ship Restocks

The 500-ton coastal freighter Maria Francisca, which has ridden at anchor in Royal Roads for the past two weeks awaiting cargo, entered Victoria harbor late yesterday to take on fresh supplies of water and stores.

Spokesman for the local agents, King Bros., said last night cargo for Central America is still being sought. The vessel, former U.S. army transport, was purchased last month by Mexican owners who sent a 13-man crew from Ensenada to sail it home, if possible with cargo.

Two partners in a newly formed private patrol service in Victoria yesterday announced their being checked by city police Thursday night.

About 9:30 p.m. Thursday Mrs. E. Johnson, 244 Superior, answered a knock on the door to find a man in uniform standing there.

HOME PROTECTION

He explained he represented the Western Home Guard Patrol, which was offering a protective service to city householders.

After he'd gone following a brief talk, Mr. Johnson conferred with a neighbor and it was decided to call police.

A city constable investigated and found two patrol men in the neighborhood.

VERY NEW FIRM

He urged them to stop soliciting business until they had proper identification, which they then lacked.

"We're a very new firm," said president, Earl Lehn, 1248 Fort, and his partner Armand Guyon of the same address—which is patrol headquarters.

INCLUDING PHOTOS

"We're still trying to get settled and are in process of having proper identification cards, including photographs, prepared for our men."

He explained the firm was concentrating on the James Bay area until it got business enough to expand and still provide proper service.

"We don't want anyone to think we're impersonating policemen," said Mr. Lehn. "Nothing could be farther from the truth. We hope to be able to work with them."

Iberia Visit Likely

A suggestion in the Colonist has been quickly acted upon by Victoria's centennial committee.

An editorial this week pointed out that in view of the fact the P and O Line has scheduled the liner Sa Iberia to visit Seattle next year in recognition of the World's Fair, equal consideration could be expected for a visit of the liner to Victoria during centennial celebrations here.

CALLING LINE

Shortly after the editorial was published, centennial coordinator Archie Willis called P and O Orient representatives in Vancouver.

Mr. Willis later said that although the company's representatives did not actually promise a visit by the Iberia, they "expected it would be easy to arrange and set Aug. 6 as the likely date."

Facing a threat of court action to block construction of a $970,000 high-rise apartment near Beacon Hill Park because of an alleged illegal building permit, city council yesterday moved quickly to alter its high-rise bylaw.

A public hearing on the proposed bylaw amendment will be held before a council meeting at 2 p.m. Oct. 26.

Threat of legal action was made by Victoria Lawyer Edwin Popham, acting for Alfred Staples, 638 Toronto Street, G. Andrew Dery and E. I. Dery, who have an interest in a two-storey apartment block at 651 Avalon Road, near the site of the high-rise.

AMENITY CIRCLE

Crux of the problem is the "amenity circle" section of council's high-rise bylaw which is aimed at preventing check-by-jowl construction of multiple dwellings.

This is a circle with its centre at the building's corner. The size of the circle varies, depending on the size of the building and side setbacks between the edge of the lot and the building. No building's amenity circle is allowed to touch another's.

WOULD CUT ACROSS

Mr. Popham's contention, in a letter to city council, was that the circle provision applies to all buildings in the high-rise area and that the circle of the planned high-rise would cut across the circle of the existing Dery property on Avalon Road.

City Solicitor T. P. O'Grady told council he agreed with Mr. Popham's claim and, in his opinion, the building permit was illegal and of no effect because it was issued in contravention of the bylaw.

THREE STOREYS

But, he said intent of the bylaw was not to include non-high-rise buildings under the amenity circle provisions.

Council gave preliminary readings to an amendment limiting amenity circle provisions to buildings of more than three storeys.

Mr. Staples, a professional town planner, is employed by the B.C. government. He stressed yesterday he was acting in the matter as a private citizen.

"I am unhappy that the principle of amenity should be granted to one type of new building and denied another type erected before the passing of the bylaw," he said.

This amounts to a virtual taking of property rights and values and indicates a willingness on the part of the city to write off certain investments in favor of others, a most serious matter for the affected landowner.

City Hotel Suggested For Elderly

Two Victoria women have asked city council to buy the Windermere Hotel, now occupied by the RCMP, for conversion to a senior citizens' recreation centre.

The letters came on the heels of a council decision Thursday to consider construction of a downtown centre for elderly citizens as a centennial project.

Yesterday's letters came from Mrs. Ethel M. Blackwood, Cherry Bank Hotel, and Mrs. A. Carolyn Bayfield, Aberdeen Hotel.

Payroll Plan Big Boost

Staffs Push United Appeal Crucial Home Drive Near

As Greater Victoria's 1961 United Appeal campaign continues to gather momentum, contributions continue to run well ahead of last year's totals.

Total collected to date is $110,572—an increase of almost $30,000 over collections at this same time last year.

PAYROLL SYSTEM

Campaign officials have cited tremendous support by employees of the payroll deduction system for part of the surge ahead.

Since early results are usually indicative of the campaign's support during the residential drive, hopes are high for that phase.

OPERATION DOORBELL

Following a mass rally of 1,500 canvassers and team captains slated for 8:30 p.m. Sunday at the Odeon Theatre, "Operation Doorbell" begins the following day.

"This is a crucial point in the drive," one campaigner

said. "Success of the residential campaign will tell the tale."

TEEN-AGERS HELP

Ninety community-conscious teen-agers will join the appeal's residential campaign. Comprising 45 boys and 45 girls, the youngsters are all students of Oak Bay High School. They will participate in the big rally Sunday.

Following a weekly board meeting yesterday, campaign leaders expressed enthusiasm over progress so far.

LOOK AT FACTS

"We get occasional carps from people that we never meet an objective or that interest in the United Appeal is lagging," an official said. "But I wish they'd take a look at the facts."

He pointed out that final returns have increased each year except one ever since 1957. In that year, the total was up two per cent.

The following year registered a 24-per-cent jump and a further seven-per-cent increase was recorded in 1959.

Only in 1960 did the final total dip four per cent from figures the year before.

Since another 5,000 people have been listed as special donors this year, the appeal hopes for greater returns from this facet of the campaign.

Parade Today In Belmont Park

A special fire prevention week parade sponsored by the naval fire department will start at 10:30 a.m. today from the Belmont Park fire station.

The parade will include equipment from the naval fire station and Langford and Colwood fire departments. Also at hand will be a number of Belmont Park children riding bikes, tricycles and scooters.

How Much Is It Worth To Lead the Liberals?

Peter Bruton's NOTEBOOK

"Keep the campaign in a low key," advised another.

The third candidate, Bill Gilmour, a lawyer from Summerland, is described as the "dark horse."

Faced with the go-out-and-get-em tactics being waged by some parties in the fight, his workers set up a stand yesterday with signs reading "Guys and Gals Go For Gilmour."

Fresh apples were given away instead of drinks.

"Who is going to win?" we asked an organizer.

"I don't know," he replied, "but an awful lot of people are munching apples."

Behind it all was the question being asked by many delegates: Why?

"You can say that," declared Mr. Martin with a wave.

The campaign being waged by Jack Taggart, another of the presidential candidates, is a lot more reserved.

Mr. Taggart, a Vancouver lawyer, thinks both Mr. Martin and himself want the same things for the party but says they have different methods of obtaining them.

"What do you think about getting a brass band?" asked one of his campaigners.

LIBERAL CHIEF: Reporters covering the Liberal convention were given a "briefing" on what was to happen during the two-day meeting.

It was carefully explained how national Liberal leader Lester Pearson would arrive this afternoon, how a police escort would accompany the cavalcade of cars—"If it's fine weather it'll be a convertible"—from Elk Lake and how signs would be displayed reading "Mike Is Back in Town."

Then there would be a press conference.

"And listen, fellows," said a Liberal organizer. "Let's try and keep the questions domestic."

Reporters looked blank. The organizer tried again.

BIBLICAL: Padre William Hills who gave the invocation at the Liberal convention said there was no mention in the Bible of "Social Credit," "socialism" or "Conservatives."

But he mentioned two Biblical quotations: "The wise person shall not be called liberal."

"The liberal soul shall be made lost."

Where Did Crew Go From 1944 Wreck?

VANCOUVER (CP) — The RCAF has closed the file on the mysterious disappearance of an air force Mitchell bomber on a coastal navigation flight 17 years ago with discovery of the wreckage on Vancouver Island.

Air force spokesmen said Friday investigation of the wreckage which a prospector stumbled over in the rugged bushland near Mount Seaton on the island's northwest coast yielded no trace of the plane's crew of four Royal Air Force personnel.

"Not even a shoe was found," the spokesman said. "The conclusion is that the crew left the plane in the air before it crashed."

The bomber, K-for-Kenneth 319, is one of 15 planes, both military and civilian, which have vanished over B.C.'s rugged terrain since 1944.

The twin-engine Mitchell took off from Abbotsford July 14, 1944, on a routine coastal navigation flight.

WENT SILENT

It was in touch with its base by radio until something went wrong and the radio went silent.

Last week prospector Magnus Brandt of Vancouver found the remains of the bomber grown in thick undergrowth. A helicopter from RCAF search and rescue took a ground party to the area and they found the wreckage choked with weeds but its tires still inflated. But there was not a single trace of its crew, which has long since been presumed dead.

Overlooked Dozen Now Counted

VANCOUVER (CP) — Census officials said Friday 12 residents on the Island Highway near Courtenay were missed during the summer census.

Dennis Francis, advised that one of the residents, Mrs. Ada Long, had reported the oversight to a newspaper, made a quick check and said: "Can't think how it happened, but thanks for letting us know."

"Others will be told about it," said Francis of the left-overs.

At least 100 members from Victoria, Nanaimo, Vancouver and Seattle are expected to attend.

City Symphony

Adventure in Music Delight in Duncan

By BERT BINNY

DUNCAN — Fresh, melodious piano playing together with a fine orchestral performance were provided by guest artist Mark Jalkanen and the Victoria Symphony Orchestra at Duncan last night.

One of the largest audiences in years was on hand at Cowichan High School for the first in a series of four concerts this season.

SINCERE APPROACH

Pianist Jalkanen's performance of Mendelssohn's G-Minor concerto was marked by a sincere approach which made the whole affair like a joyous adventure in music. Yet at the same time there was a complete absence of affectation and the enthusiastic response of the audience was unmistakably well deserved.

The concert opened with a suite from the dramatic works of Henry Purcell arranged by Sir John Barbirolli.

In this the "Glancing Fire" of Purcell mentioned in the program sometimes burned a little low where greater intensity seemed to be required but the suite as a whole did justice to the composer's changing moods.

A very enjoyable evening was brought to a close with the performance of Beethoven's Eighth symphony.

Drowning Probe

Father of 10 Met Accidental Death

CAMPBELL RIVER — An inquiry yesterday into the Thursday death of a seiner captain blamed "accidental drowning."

The body of James Wadhams, 54, was found near the wharf here but there were no witnesses to testify as to how he reached the water.

The inquiry ruled he had slipped into the water while trying to board his seiner. He is survived by his widow, Mary, and 10 children.

Skindivers probing the water around the seiner recovered the body early yesterday.

Burial will be in Alert Bay.

$46,000 for Sewers Needed in Nanaimo

NANAIMO — The Greater Nanaimo sewer board will complete its current sewer program.

The board held a joint meeting with representatives of Nanaimo and Harewood last night in Nanaimo city hall.

In presenting a statement, the sewer board pointed out that, through joint winter works funds spent on house connections in the city of Nanaimo, the city owes Harewood $14,730.

Total cost of the current sewer program is just under $2,500,000. At last night's meeting the board announced it may have to go into a new bond issue to pay holdback contracts in connection with the program.

Winter works grants from the federal government totalled almost $257,000. Mayor Pete Maffeo of Nanaimo said this figure represented "an impressive saving on the project."

So far, merchants have donated $292 toward the plan. The money will go toward staging a giant dinner for the elderly in the Plaza ballroom Dec. 8.

Guest speaker at the Monday night banquet will be Bob Smith, editor of Cowichan Leader Digest. A new Russian film on wood cutting operations will be shown. R. W. Wood, acting dean of the UBC forestry faculty, is in charge of local arrangements.

Amalgamation Efforts Win Citation for Leader

CHEMAMUS — Chamber of Commerce has cited E. F. N. Robinson, chairman of the group's amalgamation committee since its inception four years ago, for outstanding community service.

Chamber president Stanley Heya presented him with the citation.

Extension of village boundaries to include adjacent areas, for which purpose the chamber set up its amalgamation committee under Mr. Robinson's direction, is now an accomplished fact.

The village commission has extended its services to the new areas with the collection of garbage and an area-wide census by the village is almost completed, with the exception of small sections to the north.

The dinner meeting held at Oyster Bay Tuesday to honor Mr. Robinson also was the occasion of an address by Donald South, director of regional planning for the department of municipal affairs. He urged better community planning.

HOME BOMB BLAST COSTS YOUTH HAND

Oak Bay Vault to Give Up Bones for Historic Burial

The bones of 849 Chinese, locked away in a vault in the Chinese Cemetery on Penzance Road, Oak Bay, will be buried on the site Sunday afternoon in the only traditional Chinese burial ceremony ever to be held in Canada.

The bones—gathered from across Canada more than 25 years ago for shipment to Hong Kong—will be interred in a mass grave.

The ancient Chinese burial practices have been discontinued in Canada since the Communist seizure of power on the mainland of China. Bodies were first buried here and left in the ground for eight years. Then the bones were disinterred and returned to the old country for traditional burial ceremony.

The mass of bones stored at the Chinese cemetery in little boxes was held there during the Second World War and would have been shipped to China in 1946 had the Communists not refused to accept them.

On a number of occasions vandals have broken in and scattered the bones.

The ceremony, slated for 2.30 p.m. Sunday, has never been held in Canada before and—because of the changed burial practices—will likely never be held again.

The Chinese community is considering plans for conversion of the old cemetery into a public park.

A Central Saanich youth had his left hand blown off by a home-made bomb yesterday afternoon.

Alan Bompas, 17, of 1932 Mount Newton Cross Road, was later reported in "good" condition and under sedation in Rest Haven Hospital at Sidney.

The tragic mishap brought a stern warning from Central Saanich Police Chief F. L. Brownlee for parents to keep their children away from explosives.

IT'S TOO LATE

Russell Bompas, saddened father of the injured youth, said his son "admits the fallacy of the action... but it's too late."

The youth, a Grade 11 student keenly interested in chemistry, was alone at home when the tragedy occurred about 4.30 p.m.

He told a Colonist reporter at his bedside last night:

"I bent one end of a pipe closed in a vise, and filled the pipe with a mixture of potassium chlorate, sulphur and charcoal."

"I was pounding the other end closed with a hammer. There must have been enough heat from the blows to ignite the powder."

He said he experimented with explosives "many times" in the past because he enjoys it.

After the accident, Alan ran down the road for help. He was taken to hospital by Central Saanich ambulance.

Alan, eldest of four children in the Bompas family, was permitted to stay home from school yesterday because he had flu. The others were on their way home from school. His mother was in town on business and his father was still at work at the time of the accident.

Reckless Conduct Of Berlin Reds Protested by U.S.

BERLIN (AP) — The United States command Friday protested to Soviet officials against "reckless and illegal conduct" of East German border guards.

Earlier in the day the guards fired wildly as nine truck-borne refugees broke through the Communist fence.

None of the U.S. military and West Berlin police who rushed to the wooded scene was reported hurt in the hour-long shooting in early morning half-light. They did not return the fire.

ALL INCIDENTS

The protest referred to both the latest incident and earlier shooting incidents involving East German police along the border.

East German police again opened fire in the evening when two East Berliners fled into the French sector near Bernauerstrasse. West Berlin officials said the two escaped unhurt across railroad sidings near the border.

Job Forms Illegal B.C. Informs City

By TED SHACKLEFORD

City council is breaking the law in asking prospective employees to name their religious affiliation.

And an officer of the provincial Labor Relations Board has been appointed to investigate a complaint against the city's system of hiring employees.

These points were made in a letter to the city yesterday by C. R. Margison, provincial director of labor relations, the Colonist discovered last night.

City Solicitor T. P. O'Grady said Mr. Margison's letter listed a number of questions which the latter said could not be legally asked of prospective employees. Among the things he said could not be asked were questions about religion and what elementary school was attended by the applicant.

City hall job application forms include questions on nationality and religion.

VOTED TO RETAIN

Ald. Michael Griffin spearheaded an attempt to have the questions removed from the forms, but city council at a meeting Oct. 5 voted 6-3 to retain the questions.

Following the decision, a protest was entered with the labor board. Mr. Margison's letter and the appointment of the investigating officer are the sequel.

Aged U.S. Satellite Just Won't Shut Up

WASHINGTON (AP) — A year after it was supposed to have gone silent, the United States satellite Explorer VII was still broadcasting from space Friday, its second birthday. This could go on for years.

The solar-powered radio of the 91's-pound space vehicle was supposed to have clammed up automatically a year ago Friday, so as to free the radio frequency employed for use in some other satellite.

But a timing device failed to function, as Explorer VII went right on broadcasting scientific data about radiation conditions at the altitudes of its orbital pathway—some 340-to-670 miles above the earth.

Gypsies Asking UN For Island Nation

PARIS (Reuters) — Gypsy "King" Valda Volvod III Friday announced plans to found a Gypsy state called Romanestan for his 9,000,000 subjects on virgin territory allotted by the United Nations.

He told a press conference here that a draft international statute for the Gypsies will be submitted to the UN asking for juridical and social protection for Gypsies throughout the world and provision of land for them to establish Romanestan.

He proposed an island in the Atlantic or Pacific as a site for a Gypsy state and said it would be modelled on Israel to show that the Gypsies were capable of developing virgin or barren soil.

The subject will be discussed at a world Gypsy congress due to be held in Paris next month.

British Race Wall of Lava

CAPETOWN, South Africa (UPI)—British landing parties raced an advancing wall of lava yesterday to rescue equipment from a crawfish cannery on the doomed volcanic island of Tristan da Cunha.

Officials expect the volcano's eruption, which forced removal of residents of the South Atlantic Ocean island this week, to destroy Tristan da Cunha's factories and homes.

But island administrator Peter Wheeler, along with seven men from the British frigate Leopard and two crawfish vessels, braved the advancing flow and the rain of sulphur and ash to save whatever they could. Most of the islanders had fled with only as many possessions as they could carry.

Grits Grind to Halt In Quorum Quibble

By PETER BRUTON

A bitter, shouting, procedural hassle erupted on the floor of the B.C. Liberal Association convention last night—and ended with delegates disregarding the fact that they did not constitute a quorum.

The storm blew up over proposed changes to the Liberal constitution—amendments which many delegates felt should first be discussed at local branch levels.

(See also Pages 5, 11 and 13.)

Chairman Allan Cox of Oak Bay reversed his stand left and right as delegate after delegate rose on points of order.

NOT A QUORUM

One delegate said the resolutions could not be discussed because there was not a quorum of 250 delegates, as demanded in the party constitution.

Mr. Cox said there was a quorum. Then he said it was not necessary for there to be 250 people present. Delegates demanded a vote.

By this time a number of people who had not been in the hall at the time the row started had come in.

Mr. Cox said he "hated" to do it but he was going to rule that the doors be closed.

A count was made, but before it was announced, other delegates said people outside should be allowed to come in to vote.

Mr. Cox then ruled that the doors be opened and that everyone outside should be counted. He ruled that proxies could be exercised, then said they couldn't.

GLUM RESULT

He then glumly announced the result: 178 people.

"The rules call for 250," said Mr. Cox. "Therefore we are unable to proceed with the business of the meeting."

Delegates protested this. "This is a very, very bad thing for a Liberal convention to adjourn like this," said Tom Goode, former Liberal MP.

SHORT ADJOURNMENT

It was decided to adjourn the meeting for 30 seconds and that when the meeting began again no one would call for a quorum.

Mr. Cox turned his gavel over to Don Lanakill.

"I have now left the chair, thank God," declared Mr. Cox. "ONLY WISE"

"Is it your wish to go ahead with constitutional resolution?" asked Mr. Lanakill.

"My only wish is to get out of here," said Mr. Cox.

Delegates then solved the whole question—they decided that the amendments which caused the flareup should be referred back to the local branches.

Long Mountain Range Found Beneath Pacific

WASHINGTON (AP)—The survey ship Pioneer has discovered a 1,000-mile chain of undersea mountains in the North Pacific Ocean, Secretary of Commerce Luther Hodges reported Friday.

There are 34 peaks in the range which rise from 3,000 to more than 6,000 feet from the sea bottom in the area just south of Alaska and the Aleutians and extending about half the distance from Alaska to the Hawaiian Islands.

Hodges said one of the peaks rises 6,270 feet in an area where existing charts show almost a flat bottom.
